SIPA LIQUIDATION

Adv. Pro No. 10-04469 (CGM)

DEFENDANTS' OPPOSITION AND RESPONSE TO TRUSTEE'S COUNTERSTATEMENT OF MATERIAL FACTS

Defendants Carol L. Kamenstein (“Carol”), David R. Kamenstein, (“David”), Sloan G. Kamenstein (“Sloan”), and Tracy D. Kamenstein (“Tracy”), (collectively “Defendants” or the “Kamensteins”), respectfully submit, pursuant to Local Rule 56.1, to object and correct the Counterstatement of Material Facts in Support of the Trustee’s Cross-Motion for Summary Judgment (“CSMF”), filed by Irving H. Picard, the trustee for the liquidation of Bernard L. Madoff Investment Securities LLC (the “LLC”) (ECF No. 126).

As set forth specifically in response to each numbered statement below, many of the Trustee’s purportedly undisputed facts are legal arguments that belong in the Trustee’s memorandum rather than in a Counter Statement of Material Facts. To the extent the Trustee’s statements reflect “facts,” those facts are often flatly contrary to the sworn testimony of the Trustee’s key expert witness, Bruce Dubinsky. In other instances, the Trustee’s “facts” are either not material, incorrectly reported, or not supported by admissible evidence. Even if a portion of the Trustee’s statement, such as a quotation, may be technically accurate, Defendants do not admit to or adopt anything beyond the accuracy of the quoted language within the document, which, of course, speaks for itself. Defendants also note that, while they may admit that certain language is quoted correctly, unless explicitly stated, Defendants’ admission to the accuracy of the quoted language does not admit to the accuracy of the underlying fact or facts referred to in the quoted language. Further, Defendants do not admit to the admissibility of, or waive objections to, the document containing the language in question. Defendants reserve the right to make evidentiary objections to the purported evidence cited in the Trustee’s CSMF, regardless of whether an objection is asserted herein.

I. Background and the Trustee

1. On December 11, 2008 (the “Filing Date”), Madoff was arrested by federal agents for criminal violations of federal securities laws, including securities fraud, investment adviser fraud, and mail and wire fraud. Contemporaneously, the Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) commenced an action in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York. Compl., SEC v. Madoff, No. 08-cv-10791 (LLS) (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 11, 2008), ECF No. 1.

RESPONSE: Disputed. While Madoff was arrested on December 11, 2008, the Trustee is incorrect about the action's timing and imprecise about the nature of the fraud. Further, the case cited involves unrelated issues of the nature and conditions of Madoff's detention pending trial.

On December 11, 2008, Bernard L. Madoff was arrested on a criminal complaint alleging one count of securities fraud. U.S. v Madoff, 1:08-mj-02735 UA (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 11, 2008) [ECF Nos. 1, 2]. On December 11, 2008, an action was commenced against the LLC and against Madoff by the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York alleging violations of Section 17(a) of the Securities Act of 1933, Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule 10b- 5, and Sections 206(1) and 206(2) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. SEC v. Madoff, Case 1:08-cv-10791-LLS (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 11, 2008) [ECF No. 1]. There was no charge that Madoff operated a Ponzi scheme.

On March 10, 2009, a criminal Information was filed in the District Court charging Madoff with eleven felonies including securities fraud, investment adviser fraud, mail fraud, wire fraud, three counts of money laundering, false statements, perjury, false filings with the SEC, and theft from an employee benefit plan. United States v. Bernard L. Madoff, 09 Cr. 213 (DC) (S.D.N.Y Mar. 10, 2009) [ECF No. 38]. Madoff was not charged with operating a Ponzi scheme.

2. On December 11, 2008, the United States Government initiated a criminal action against Madoff for criminal violations of federal securities laws, including, inter alia, securities fraud, investment advisor fraud, and mail and wire fraud. Compl., United States v. Madoff, No. 08-mj-02735 (S.D.N.Y. 2008), ECF No. 1.

RESPONSE: Undisputed.

3. On December 15, 2008, under 15 U.S.C. § 78eee(a)(4)(A), the SEC consented to combining its action with an application by the Securities Investor Protection Corporation

(“SIPC”). Application of SIPC at 10, SEC v. Madoff, No. 08-cv-10791 (LLS) (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 15, 2008), ECF No. 5. Thereafter, under 15 U.S.C. § 78eee(a)(4)(B), SIPC filed an application in the district court alleging, among other things, that BLMIS could not meet its obligations to securities customers as they came due and its customers needed the protections afforded by the Securities Investor Protection Act (“SIPA”). Id. at 2–3.

RESPONSE: Undisputed, except that the Trustee defines the LLC as “BLMIS.” This is misleading because Madoff operated as a sole proprietorship from at least the 1970s under the trade name “Bernard L. Madoff Investment Securities” (“BLMIS”).

4. Also, on December 15, 2008, the District Court granted SIPC’s application and entered an order pursuant to SIPA, which, in pertinent part:

- i. appointed the Trustee for the liquidation of the business of BLMIS pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 78eee(b)(3);
- ii. appointed Baker & Hostetler LLP as counsel to the Trustee pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 78eee(b)(3); and
- iii. removed the case to the bankruptcy court pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 78eee(b)(4).

Order, SEC v. Madoff, No. 08-cv-10791 (LLS) (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 15, 2008), ECF No. 4 (“SIPC Liquidation Order”).

RESPONSE: Undisputed except the Trustee was appointed for the liquidation of the LLC, not for the liquidation of Madoff or his sole proprietorship, BLMIS. SIPC Liquidation Order, ECF No. 4.

5. By orders dated December 23, 2008 and February 4, 2009, respectively, the bankruptcy court approved the Trustee’s bond and found that the Trustee was a disinterested person. Accordingly, the Trustee is duly qualified to serve and act on behalf of the estate. Order, Sec. Inv’r Prot. Corp. v. Bernard L. Madoff Inv. Sec. LLC, Adv. Pro. No. 08-01789 (SMB) (Bankr.

Sec. LLC, Adv. Pro. No 08-01789 (SMB) (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. Feb. 4, 2009), ECF No. 69.

RESPONSE: The statement is subject to clarification. By orders dated December 23, 2008 and February 4, 2009, respectively, the Bankruptcy Court approved the Trustee's bond and found that the Trustee was a disinterested person to serve and act on behalf of the estate of the LLC only. See Order, Dec. 23, 2008, Sec. Inv'r Prot. Corp. v. Bernard L. Madoff Inv. Sec. LLC, Adv. Pro. No. 08-01789 (SMB), ECF No. 11; Order, Feb. 4, 2009, ECF No. 69.

6. On April 13, 2009, an involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed against Madoff, and on June 9, 2009, the bankruptcy court substantively consolidated the chapter 7 estate of Madoff into the SIPA Proceeding. Involuntary Petition, In re Bernard L. Madoff, Adv. Pro. No. 09-11893 (SMB) (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. Apr. 13, 2009), ECF No. 1; Consent Order, Sec. Inv'r Prot. Corp. v. Bernard L. Madoff Inv. Sec. LLC, Adv. Pro. No. 08-01789 (SMB) (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. June 9, 2009), ECF No. 252.

RESPONSE: The statement is subject to clarification. On June 10, 2009, this Court entered an order substantively consolidating the Chapter 7 estate of Madoff into the SIPA liquidation. Consent Order, June 10, 2009, Sec. Inv'r Prot. Corp. v. Bernard L. Madoff Inv. Sec. LLC (In re Bernard L. Madoff Inv. Sec. LLC), Adv. Pro. No. 08-01789, ECF No. 252. The Order was subject to the following significant limitation and specifically preserved for Madoff's Chapter 7 trustee the power to bring avoidance actions to recover alleged property of Madoff:

Notwithstanding the substantive consolidation of the Madoff estate into the BLMIS SIPA Proceeding, the Chapter 7 Trustee shall remain Chapter 7 trustee of the Madoff estate and shall continue to have all powers, rights, claims and interests of a Chapter 7 trustee to bring claims under Chapters 5 and 7 of the Bankruptcy Code in consultation with the SIPA Trustee and SIPC. Further, all powers, rights, claims and interests of the Madoff estate are expressly preserved, including without limitation all Chapter 5 and Chapter 7 powers, rights, claims and/or interests.

Id. at ¶4 (emphasis added).

Thus, the Consent Order specifically preserved for Madoff's Chapter 7 trustee the power to bring avoidance actions to recover alleged property of Madoff. Id.

II. BLMIS Operated a Ponzi Scheme Through Its Investment Advisory Business

A. BLMIS's Business

7. In January 1960, Bernard L. Madoff registered as a broker-dealer with the SEC. He was assigned registrant number 8-8132. Through that registration, the broker-dealer became a member of SIPC when SIPA was enacted in 1970. SIPC Liquidation Order; Declaration of Nicholas J. Cremona, dated August 28, 2020 ("Cremona Decl."), Ex. 1 (SEC Form BD for Bernard L. Madoff dated Dec. 31, 1959 (PUBLIC0003607)).

RESPONSE: Undisputed.

8. Beginning in 1960 and until January 1, 2001, BLMIS operated as a sole proprietorship. Dubinsky Decl., Attach. A (Dubinsky Report) ¶ 36. During its existence, it operated under the names Bernard L. Madoff and Bernard L. Madoff Investment Securities and, after 2001, as Bernard L. Madoff Investment Securities LLC. Id. ¶ 38.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The Dubinsky Report as cited does refer to the term BLMIS, but Dubinsky uses that term to connote the LLC which is seriously misleading since BLMIS was Madoff's trade name for his sole proprietorship as far back, at least, as the 1970s. See Chaitman Moving Dec.¹ Ex. I, SEC Amended Form BD at 8-10 ["Q. Activities of this Partnership,

Corporation, or Organization: Securities Activities: A: Yes; Investment Advisory Activities: A: No”]. Indeed, there is no evidence that the IA business was ever contributed to the LLC. On the contrary, all the evidence proves that the IA business remained Madoff’s property after the LLC was formed. See id.

9. Effective as of January 1, 2001, BLMIS was registered as a New York single member limited liability company. On January 12, 2001, BLMIS amended its SEC Form BD to reflect its change in corporate form from a sole proprietorship to a single member limited liability company and all the assets and liabilities of the sole proprietorship were transferred to the limited liability company. Cremona Decl., Ex. 3 (2001 SEC Amended Form BD).

RESPONSE: Disputed. On January 12, 2001, the LLC amended Madoff’s SEC Form BD to reflect the change in corporate form for the legitimate proprietary trading (“PT”) and market-making (“MM”) businesses operated by Madoff’s sons from a sole proprietorship to a single member limited liability company. Form BD did not effectuate a transfer of all the assets and liabilities of the sole proprietorship to the LLC. On the contrary, Form BD transferred only the PT and MM businesses. Form BD specifically stated that the LLC would not be engaged in the investment advisory business. See Chaitman Moving Dec. Ex. I, SEC Amended Form BD at 8-10.

10. In response to the direction in the SEC Amended Form BD to “[b]riefly describe details of the succession including any assets or liabilities not assumed by the successor [BLMIS],” (emphasis in original), Madoff replied:

EFFECTIVE JANUARY 1, 2001, PREDECESSOR WILL TRANSFER TO SUCCESSOR ALL OF PREDECESSOR’S ASSETS AND LIABILITIES, RELATED TO PREDECESSOR’S BUSINESS. THE TRANSFER WILL NOT RESULT IN ANY CHANGE IN OWNERSHIP OR CONTROL.

Cremona Decl., Ex. 3 (2001 SEC Amended Form BD) at Question 5 (emphasis in original). No assets or liabilities of the sole proprietorship were listed as “not assumed by the successor.” Id.

RESPONSE: Disputed. While the quoted language indeed appears on Amended Form BD, the document expressly does not include the IA business as an operation of the LLC. See Chaitman Moving Dec. Ex. I, SEC Amended Form BD at 8-10. .

11. Madoff further certified that no “accounts, funds, or securities of customers of the applicant are held or maintained by such other person, firm, or organization.” Id. at Question 8(c) (emphasis in original).

RESPONSE: Disputed. The statement contains an incorrect predicate. Madoff did not certify that accounts were held by the LLC. To the extent that this statement contains the Trustee’s characterization of the effect of Amended Form BD, which speaks for itself, the Court is respectfully referred to the cited document for a true and accurate interpretation of its contents. See Chaitman Moving Dec. Ex. I, SEC Amended Form BD at 8-10.

12. In 2006, BLMIS registered as an investment advisor with the SEC claiming to have only 23 accounts and $11.7 billion in assets under management. Dubinsky Decl., Attach. A (Dubinsky Report) ¶ 39.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading because BLMIS is the trade name that Madoff used for his sole proprietorship from at least the 1970s on. The LLC registered as an investment advisor with the SEC for the first time on August 25, 2006 in order to resolve an audit by the SEC. In the registration, the LLC claimed to have 23 accounts (as opposed to the approximately 5,200 accounts in the IA business) and $11.7 billion in assets under management (as opposed to the approximately $60 billion in assets in the IA business), according to the IA customer statements. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. A, Form ADV, Aug.

25, 2006 [PUBLIC0003729-762]. Moreover, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. This statement is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c).

13. BLMIS operated three business units: (i) a proprietary trading business; (ii) a market-making business; and (iii) the IA Business. Id. ¶ 36.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants agree that, prior to January 2001, the sole proprietorship, operated the three businesses set forth above. However, after January 2001, the LLC, run by Madoff’s sons, operated the PT and MM businesses of the LLC and Madoff continued to operate the IA business as a sole proprietorship under both his own name and under his trade name, BLMIS. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 8-10. Moreover, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Response to CSMF ¶ 12.

14. The proprietary trading business traded for its own account to make money for BLMIS. Id. ¶¶ 36, 46.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Defendants do not dispute that the PT business traded for its own account to make money for the entity which held it but that entity was Madoff prior to January 2001 and the LLC after January 2001. Further, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Response to CSMF ¶ 12.

15. The market-making business made markets in certain stocks, bonds, warrants and rights. Id.

RESPONSE: While Defendants do not dispute the statement, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Response to CSMF ¶ 12.

16. The proprietary trading and market-making businesses were referred to within {00045843 1 }

BLMIS as “House 5.” Id. ¶ 36.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading because it describes the sole proprietorship that Madoff operated at least since the 1970s. See Chaitman Moving Dec. Ex. G, Confirmation Slips dating from 1979 showing the trade name Bernard L. Madoff Investment Securities [10-5420_Defendant_0002412-13]²; Sec. Inv'r Prot. Corp. v. Bernard L. Madoff Inv. Sec. LLC, 610 B.R. 197, 206 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2019). “House 5” referred to the Proprietary Trading Business before the LLC was formed in 2001. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. I, Nelson Tr. 5/8/19 at 62:18-19; see e.g. Complaint (“Compl.”) at ¶ 22, Adv. Pro. No. 10-04469 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. November 30, 2010), ECF No. 1.³ Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Response to CSMF ¶ 12.

17. The IA Business was designed to purportedly trade stocks to buy equities and to buy options on behalf of its customer accounts. Id. ¶¶ 41-44.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants object to the use of the word “purportedly.” The IA business existed since the 1960s. The Trustee has not produced any credible evidence that securities were not purchased for IA customers’ accounts in the period prior to 1992-1993. Moreover, Dubinsky has admitted that Madoff used IA customers’ money to purchase billions of dollars of T-bills, which Madoff credited to some of the customers’ accounts. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. I, Nelson Tr. 5/8/19 at 166:17-18; 90:25-91:2; 155:2-4; 154:2-9. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Response to CSMF ¶ 12.

18. The proprietary trading business, the market-making business, and the IA Business were units of BLMIS operated by Madoff. Id. ¶¶ 36, 48.

RESPONSE: Disputed. They were part of the sole proprietorship prior to January 2001 but, at that time, the PT business and the MM business were transferred to the LLC. Further, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Response to CSMF ¶ 12.

B. BLMIS Was Not Trading Securities

19. Bruce Dubinsky, a forensic accountant with more than 30 years of experience in financial fraud investigations, was retained by the Trustee as an expert witness in this matter. Mr. Dubinsky conducted numerous analyses from which he concluded that BLMIS did not conduct any trading on behalf of its IA Business customers. Id. at Section VI.A.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The statement about Dubinsky's experience as a forensic accountant may well be accurate. The term "BLMIS" as defined by the Trustee is misleading because BLMIS was Madoff's sole proprietorship. Moreover, Dubinsky's flagrant and patent perjury makes him entirely incredible. See Nelson, Adv. Pro. No. 10-04658, ECF No. 179 at ¶ 168. Defendants also dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Response to CSMF ¶ 12.

20. At various times, BLMIS reported to its IA Business customers that the money they deposited with BLMIS was invested in investment strategies called the "convertible arbitrage" strategy or the "split-strike conversion" strategy. BLMIS did not execute either strategy on behalf of its IA Business customers. Id. ¶¶ 19–26; see also ¶¶ 41–44.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term "BLMIS" as defined by the Trustee is misleading. The arbitrage strategy was conducted by Madoff as a sole proprietor during the 1980s. The customers of the IA Business were not the customers of the LLC, they did not deposit money with the LLC, and the LLC did not make reports to them. Further, see Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 8-10, 12 and 19.

21. Mr. Dubinsky analyzed BLMIS's execution of the convertible arbitrage strategy and determined that trading never occurred dating back to the 1970s. Id. at Section VI.A(1)(a).

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term "BLMIS" as defined by the Trustee is misleading. And Defendants dispute any analysis performed by Dubinsky based on the books and records of the sole proprietorship because they are derived from hearsay (Fed. R. Evid. 801, 802) contained in the internal records of the sole proprietorship which the Trustee himself has admitted were "permeated with fraud." See Adv. Pro. No. 08-01789, ECF No. 12137-1, Declaration of Bruce G. Dubinsky, November 24, 2015, Ex. 1 at 157 ("[F]raud permeated BLMIS to the extent that the company's books and records could not be relied upon by a hypothetical buyer."); see United States v. Casas, 356 F.3d 104, 119 (1st Cir. 2004) ("evidence which is based on inadmissible hearsay is itself inadmissible") (citing Martin v. Funtime, Inc., 963 F.2d 110, 116 (6th Cir.1992)). Moreover, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Response to CSMF ¶ 12.

Finally, Dubinsky's first expert report contains obviously false statements which Madoff demonstrated in his deposition. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. G, Madoff Dep. Tr. 12/20/16 at 83:8- 84:8; 83:17-20 ["Q: . . . Did you find that overall there were some mistakes that Mr. Dubinsky made? . . . A. Yes."] id. at 91:24-92:3 ["Q. . . . Are there some fundamental errors that you feel Mr. Dubinsky made? A. Yes. Q. Okay . . . let's go through them one at a time."]; id. at 92:14-19 ["A. . . The fact was the errors that I found were – had to deal with the beginning of the report dealing with the convertible – the trading that took place before 1992, which basically involved the convertible bond arbitrage transactions."]; see id. at 93:1-13 ["A. . . [Dubinsky's] knowledge of the market-making and the dealer markets and the over-the-counter trading, ... [H]e had very little experience in that. ... [I]t's sort of a specialized marketplace. . . . And he had things that were really wrong”]; id. at 95:6-16 (“A. Dubinsky . . . is used to seeing a retail confirmation, which would have the opposite of that. So he makes a big point in his report of saying that Madoff reflected this wrong for the customer. . . . [F]rankly, it’s an embarrassment . . . to put that in the report.”); id. at 100:17-101:3 (“Q. So with your investment advisory customers, who were doing convertible arbitrage . . . their transactions were always with Madoff? A. Correct. . . . All of our customers -- we always traded for – Q. From your own inventory? A. Other than theoretically in options, we traded from our own inventory.”); id. at 103:4-108:8 (“A. So Dubinsky is claiming that if we show on a confirmation or in a customer account that we bought stock – we sold stock to a customer or bonds to – a customer, that he looks to try and establish that there weren’t enough bonds that actually traded in the marketplace at the time that we claim that we bought the bonds for the customer . . . the way that he researches that is he looks on the New York Stock Exchange . . . number of bonds on the New York Stock Exchange, and shows that it was, let’s say, 100 bonds, and Madoff bought 200 bonds for a customer. So therefore, he couldn’t have possibly bought 200 bonds for a customer, because only 100 bonds traded on the . . . New York Stock Exchange . . . the fallacy of that is that . . . convertible bonds, which is what he is researching here, so not trade on the New York Stock Exchange. They trade over the counter . . . to demonstrate that I brought . . . the Bible of – the bond markets . . . ”Bond and Money Markets” [by] Moorad Choudhry. . . It’s discussing the secondary market, which is . . . when you buy and sell stock for clients, you’re buying in the secondary market, as opposed to the primary market . . . it says “Corporate bonds virtually everywhere are traded on an over-the-counter, OTC, basis. That is directly between counterparties over the telephone”. . . although, this is a bond that is listed on the New York Stock Exchange, . . . most of the trading takes place in that bond in the over-the-counter market. . . . He [Dubinsky] looks on the New York Stock Exchange, and clearly sees that that doesn't match. He's ignoring the over-the-counter-market. [I]t demonstrated . . . a total lack of understanding."]; id. at 109:6- 112:4 ["A. [Dubinsky] goes on to make another mistake when he talks about the price range . . . all of our transactions are . . . average price transactions. . . . [bought over the course of days] . . . [Dubinsky] thinks it was all bought at one price on that day . . . if he bothered to read the back of the confirmation, which he probably never did, you know, it clearly states that these are average price transactions. They're not one price."]; id. at 123:14-124:10 ["A. [Dubinsky] has no way of knowing that . . . Wall Street cleared all of their transactions through basically a couple of major banks, like Citicorp, Chase and so on."]; id. at 191:7-10 ["A. . . . [S]o he's [Dubinsky] saying that if we – if we wrote the confirmation wrong, the trade never could have taken place, because he's [Dubinsky] - - he's not reading it properly."]; see generally id. at 94:21-191:10 (Madoff's testimony regarding Dubinsky's inaccuracies); see also Chaitman Dec. Ex. C, Madoff Dep. Tr. 4/26/17 at 34:19-38:10; 36:11-16 ["Q. Now, you testified last time that Mr. Dubinsky apparently lacked an understanding of that strategy? A. Well, he – must have. He must have not understood the strategy because his report failed to – failed to state that."].

22. By 1992, the IA Business changed its primary purported investment strategy to the split-strike conversion strategy. Id. at Section VI.A.(1)(b), specifically ¶ 155.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12 and 21.

23. The split-strike conversion strategy, as purportedly executed by BLMIS, involved (a) investing in a basket of common stocks from the Standard & Poor's 100 Index, (b) buying put options and selling call options to hedge against price changes in the underlying basket of stocks, and (c) purchasing treasury bills when the money was “out of the market.” The strategy was purportedly set up by BLMIS so that the purchase of put options and the sale of call options would create a collar around the stock to reduce the volatility of BLMIS’s portfolio. Id. ¶¶ 156– 58. BLMIS did not conduct this strategy on behalf of its customers. Id. at Section VI.A.(1)(b).

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21. Moreover, Madoff purchased T-bills with IA customers’ money CMF ¶¶ 31, 35.⁴ Some appeared on the customer statements of some of the IA customers. See, e.g. CMF ¶¶ 58-91.

24. Mr. Dubinsky’s analysis demonstrated that BLMIS did not conduct any trading on behalf of its IA Business customers based on (a) the impossible reported volume of equity trades; (b) the impossible equity and options trades reported outside the daily price range; (c) the low volatility in its reported daily trading performance compared to the actual market behavior and the performance achieved by BLMIS in the proprietary trading business unit as measured by the volume weighted average prices for its sales and purchases; (d) the consistently positive rates of returns that did not “mirror” the volatility of the markets; (e) a lack of any Depository Trust Corporation (“DTC”) records to confirm the reported IA Business equity or treasury trades; and (f) a lack of Options Clearing Corporation (“OCC”) records to confirm the reported IA Business options trades. Id. at Section VI.A.(1)(c)(i)-(vi), A.(1)(e)(i)-(iv).

RESPONSE: Disputed. Dubinsky’s analysis and his testimony at the Nelson trial were patently dishonest. Dubinsky was forced to admit his perjury on cross-examination when he admitted that Madoff purchased T-bills with IA customers’ money, as proven by reliable third party records. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. I, Nelson Tr. 5/8/19 at 166:17-18; 90:25-91:2; 155:2-4; 154:2-9. Moreover, the term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21.

i. Volume of Equity Trades

25. Mr. Dubinsky analyzed equity trades that the IA Business reportedly made in the split-strike conversion strategy between January 2000 and November 2008. His analysis compared the daily volumes for certain stocks reported as purchased or sold by the IA Business on the aggregated customer statements with the actual market volumes sold as reported by Bloomberg. Id. ¶¶ 159-60.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Because of Dubinsky’s repeated perjury during his direct examination at the Nelson trial, it is impossible to view any of his findings as being credible or reliable. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21.

26. Mr. Dubinsky found many instances where the volume that BLMIS claimed to have purchased or sold on behalf of all IA Business customers exceeded the volume of equities traded for the entire market. Id.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading because the sole proprietorship, not the LLC, owned the IA business. Moreover, because of Dubinsky’s repeated perjury during his direct examination at the Nelson trial, it is impossible to view any of his findings as being credible or reliable. Defendants further object to this statement as neither material nor necessary for the determination of this case. Finally, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21.

27. For example, on July 14, 2000, the aggregated IA Business customer statements reported purchases of 2,822,680 shares of AIG (as reflected in the column titled “IA Business Purported Value”), but the total market volume that traded that day for all of AIG shares in the market was only 1,692,800 (as reflected in the column titled “Actual Market Value”). Similarly, the IA Business reported trading 17,709,440 shares of GE on September 13, 2000, but the total market volume that traded all day for GE shares in the market was only 7,604,800. Id. ¶ 159, Ex. 11 to Dubinsky Report (“Split-Strike Conversion IA Business Equity Volume Analysis, Analyzed Time Period”); see also Ex. 12 to Dubinsky Report (“Split-Strike Conversion IA Business Options Volume Analysis, Analyzed Time Period”).

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants object to this statement as neither material nor necessary for the determination of this case. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. Finally, Madoff admitted that he didn’t purchase the Fortune 100 company stocks shown on the IA customers’ statements (although he testified that he did purchase T-bills). See Chaitman Dec. Ex. C, Madoff Dep. Tr. 4/26/17 19:22-20:1; see also Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21.

28. Mr. Dubinsky concluded that BLMIS’s trading in excess of market volumes demonstrated that the IA Business did not trade on behalf of its customers. Id. at Section VI.A. (1)(c), ¶¶ 159–60, Exs. 11–12 to Dubinsky Report.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. After giving knowingly false testimony on direct examination at the Nelson trial, Dubinsky admitted that, in fact, he knew that Madoff used IA customers’ money to purchase huge positions of T-bills. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. I, Nelson Tr. 5/8/19 at 166:17-18; 90:25-91:2; 155:2-4; 154:2-9.

Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21.

ii. Equity and Options Trades Priced Outside Daily Price Range

29. For the analyzed period of 2000-2008, Mr. Dubinsky determined that there were 99,972 equity transactions executed outside the daily market traded price range. The purported prices for these transactions exceeded the daily high price by as much as $8.96 and were below the daily low by as much as $105.04. There was no evidence in the BLMIS books and records that the almost 100,000 transactions were mistakes, and there were no DTC records evidencing that the trades were actually executed. Mr. Dubinsky opined that equity trades that were reported as having been executed outside the daily price range of the entire U.S. equities market could not have occurred. Id. ¶¶ 161–62, Ex. 13 to Dubinsky Report (“Split-Strike Conversion IA Business Equity Price Analysis, Analyzed Time Period”).

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Defendants object to this statement as neither material nor necessary for the determination of this case because Madoff conceded that he didn’t buy the equities shown on the IA customers’ statements after 1992-93. However, Madoff did testify that he purchased T-bills with IA customers’ money. These T-bills did appear on some customers’ statements. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. C, Madoff Dep. Tr. 4/26/17 at 19:1-21; 19:22-20:1; 46:9-47:12; Chaitman Dec. Ex. G, Madoff Dep. Tr. 12/20/16 at 161:12-25. Given Dubinsky’s outright perjury at the Nelson trial, it is impossible to believe any of his testimony except where Madoff conceded the point. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21.

30. Mr. Dubinsky performed the same analysis on options trades for the same time period and identified 34,501 options transactions traded outside of the daily price range. He found that the options traded above the daily high price by as much as $15.25 higher and by as much as $6.05 below the daily low price. Mr. Dubinsky opined, as with the equity trades, that the reported options trades purportedly executed outside the daily price range could not have occurred. Id. ¶¶ 164–66, Ex. 14 to Dubinsky Report (“Split-Strike Conversion IA Business Options Price Analysis, Analyzed Time Period”).

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants object to this statement as neither material nor necessary for the determination of this case. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19, 21, 28 and 29.

iii. Volume Weighted Average Price Analysis

31. The absence of actual trading was also reflected in the prices at which the IA Business purportedly bought and sold shares using the split-strike conversion strategy. Mr. Dubinsky conducted a Volume Weighted Average Price (“VWAP”) analysis of the daily purchases and sales reported by the IA Business and the proprietary trading business. Id. ¶¶ 168-72.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants object to this statement as neither material nor necessary for the determination of this case. Dubinsky has destroyed his own credibility by lying on direct examination at the Nelson trial. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19, 21, 28 and 29.

32. VWAP is a trading benchmark that gives the average price a security has traded throughout the day, based on both volume and price. The VWAP is a widely used industry benchmark that allows a firm to see how well its traders are doing compared to the rest of the market. Id. ¶¶ 168-69.

RESPONSE: While the statement itself may be true, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Response to CSMF ¶ 12.

33. Based on Mr. Dubinsky's analysis, he determined that the IA Business purportedly executed 83% of the daily buy transactions by share volume below the VWAP, and 72% of the daily sell transactions by share volume above the VWAP. In other words, BLMIS had the uncanny ability to buy low and sell high at a remarkable rate compared to the rest of the market. Id. ¶ 170.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term "BLMIS" as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Defendants object to this statement as neither material nor necessary for the determination of this case. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies and states that nothing Dubinsky says can be relied upon because of his blatant perjury on direct examination at the Nelson trial. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19, 21, 28 and 29.

34. Mr. Dubinsky further compared the IA Business's purchase and sale of the same stock actually traded by the proprietary trading business on the same days. The proprietary trading business matched average VWAP of traders. The IA Business, however, consistently outperformed VWAP by such wide margins that it evidenced the fictitious nature of the trades. Id. ¶¶ 171-72.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants object to this statement as neither material nor necessary for the determination of this case. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. Dubinsky ignores Madoff's testimony that he acted as principal for his IA customers, meaning that he purchased positions in certain securities over a period of days and charged his customers an average price, not the trading day's market price. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. G, Madoff Dep. Tr. 12/20/16 at 109:6-112:4; id. at 111:23-112:4 ["A. . . [H]e [Dubinsky] thinks it was all bought at one price on that day . . . if he bothered to read the back of the confirmation, which he probably never did, you know, it clearly states that these are average price transactions. They're not one price."]. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 21, 28 and 29.

35. Mr. Dubinsky concluded that the unrealistic VWAP results demonstrated that the IA Business did not trade on behalf of its customers. Id. ¶¶ 170-72.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Response to CSMF ¶ 34. Further, see Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19, 21, 28 and 29.

iv. Annual Rates of Return

36. To further test whether the IA Business engaged in trading, Mr. Dubinsky analyzed the volatility of the IA Business's reported average annual rate of return for the split- strike conversion strategy as compared with the volatility of the annual rate of return as reported by Bloomberg for the two major market indices, the S&P 100 Index and the Dow Jones Industrial Average (the "Dow Jones") from December 31, 1996 through December 11, 2008. Id. ¶¶ 177-78.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Response to CSMF ¶ 34.

37. Because the IA Business's split-strike conversion strategy was supposedly engineered around the S&P 100, with a basket of stocks in the S&P 100 and using S&P index options, the IA Business's returns should have performed similarly to the S&P 100 Index. In other words, if the market goes down, the returns should have gone down and vice versa. Id. ¶ 177.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Response to CSMF ¶ 34.

38. Mr. Dubinsky's analysis showed, however, that the volatility in the IA Business rates of return did not mirror the volatility of the rates of returns of the major indices. The IA Business rates of return stayed within a small range, generally between 10-12% for most years and going up to 20% for the year of 1999. Id. ¶¶ 178, 180. The returns for the major market indices ranged from a high of 31% to a low of -37% (specifically, the S&P 100 swinging widely from a high of 31% to a low of -37%, and the Dow Jones from a high of 25% to a low of -34%). Id. ¶ 179.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Response to CSMF ¶ 34.

39. While the returns available in the major indices went up and down, representing the volatility in the market, the IA Business returns stayed steady for the twelve-year period examined, never having a negative year or month (even throughout 2008). Id. ¶¶ 180-81.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Response to CSMF ¶ 34.

40. Mr. Dubinsky concluded that the lack of volatility in the IA Business demonstrated that the IA Business was not engaged in trading. Id. ¶ 181.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Response to CSMF ¶ 34.

v. Securities Listed on the IA Business Customer Statements Did Not Reconcile with DTC Records

41. Mr. Dubinsky compared the trades purportedly executed for the customer accounts in the IA Business with the records maintained by the DTC, an organization in the United States that clears and settles equity transactions in the U.S. market. Id. at Section VI.A.(1)(e).

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. Further, given Dubinsky's perjury at the Nelson trial, his testimony is entitled to no credibility. Moreover, Madoff testified that the brokerage firms through which he purchased T-bills retained custody of those T-bills, so they would not have been placed with the DTC. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. W, Madoff Dep. Tr. 6/15/2016 at 52:22-25; Chaitman Dec. Ex. C, Madoff Dep. Tr. 4/26/2017 at 40:24-41:15; 78:1-25. Madoff testified that when he was dealing as principal there was no counterparty since he was on both sides of the trade. Chaitman Dec. Ex. G, Madoff Dep. Tr. 12/20/16 at 128:7-12. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19, 21, 28 and 29.

42. When equity trades are recorded at the DTC it creates the official record of where that stock is held. The ownership of the stock can be confirmed with the DTC. Id. ¶¶ 194-95.

RESPONSE: The Trustee's statement requires clarification. There are other methods of creating an official record of where the stock is held, and to the extent this statement implies that this is the only official record, it is false. For example, Madoff maintained numerous custodial accounts which held securities which were not recorded at the DTC. Similarly, Madoff held T-bills at the firms from which he purchased them. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. W, Madoff Dep. Tr. 6/15/2016 at 52:22-25; Chaitman Dec. Ex. C, Tr. 4/26/2017 at 40:24-41:15; 78:1-25; Chaitman Dec. Ex. G, Madoff Dep. Tr. 12/20/16 at 128:7-12. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 21, 28 and 29.

43. BLMIS had a single account with the DTC, the "646 account." All equity trades made by BLMIS should have been reflected in the DTC records pertaining to its account. Id. ¶ 209.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term "BLMIS" as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Presumably, here, the Trustee is referring to the LLC's account with the DTC which held securities purchased by the LLC and not securities purchased by the IA business through other brokerage firms. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 21, 28, 29, 41 and 42.

44. Mr. Dubinsky's analysis confirmed that the securities that were cleared through BLMIS's DTC account, the 646 account, were traded by the proprietary trading business. No IA Business trades were cleared through BLMIS's DTC account. Id. ¶¶ 209-13.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term "BLMIS" as defined by the Trustee is misleading. See Response to ¶ 42. Defendants object to this statement as neither material nor necessary for the determination of this case. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 21, 28, 29 and 41.

45. The Proprietary Trading Business shares reflected in the DTC records matched the BLMIS records evidencing those trades. Id. ¶ 209, 211, 213.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Here, the Trustee is referring to the PT business as operated by the LLC because he only has the DTC’s records going back to 2001, when the LLC was formed. Further, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 21, 28, 29, 41 and 42.

46. Mr. Dubinsky concluded that the proprietary trading business actually executed those trades in the marketplace, as confirmed by the DTC records. For the IA Business, however, Mr. Dubinsky could not account for the stock purportedly traded for the customers in the IA Business in any DTC records. Id. ¶ 209.

RESPONSE: Disputed. While the Proprietary Trading Business conducted legitimate trades, Defendants object to this statement as neither material nor necessary for the determination of this case. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 21, 28, 29, 41 and 42.

47. Based on his analysis, Mr. Dubinsky concluded that the IA Business did not execute the equity trades reflected on the customer statements. Id. ¶ 212.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The IA Business traded in T-bills for various specific IA customers, which were accurately reflected on the customer statements. E.g. CMF ¶¶ 58-91. Further, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21.

48. Because there were no records from the DTC showing that BLMIS owned the securities listed on the IA Business customer statements, BLMIS created fake DTC records for the IA Business. Mr. Dubinsky discovered dozens of fake DTC screen inquiries to document purported trading activity of the IA Business. Id. ¶¶ 199-208.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Further, given Dubinsky’s perjury at the Nelson trial, it is impossible to credit any of his testimony. Moreover, Dubinsky admitted on cross-examination that Madoff maintained numerous brokerage accounts through which he purchased T-bills with IA customers’ money. Some of the T-Bills were credited to some IA customers’ statements. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. I, Nelson Tr. 5/8/19 at 166:17-18; 90:25-91:2; 155:2-4; 154:2-9; see also CMF ¶¶ 58-91. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19, 21, 28, 41 and 42.

49. BLMIS installed software on the IA Business computer system that recreated fake DTC reports that were meant to look like official reports. Id. ¶¶ 206-07.

RESPONSE: Disputed. While software may have been installed on certain computer systems, the term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Further, given Dubinsky’s perjury at the Nelson trial, it is impossible to credit any of his testimony. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19, 21, 28, 41 and 42.

50. Mr. Dubinsky explained that there would be no reason, if one were doing legitimate trading and had owned the stocks, to go into a computer system and write code that used form-printing software to print out a report that mimicked what the DTC puts out, because there would instead be a real DTC report. Id. ¶ 208. Mr. Dubinsky made this determination by examining the metadata of the fake DTC screens, the code embedded in the document to record characteristics of the document, including when it was created. Id. ¶¶ 199-205.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants object to this statement as neither material nor necessary for the determination of this case. Further, given Dubinsky's perjury at the Nelson trial, it is impossible to credit any of his testimony. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19, 21, 28, 41 and 42.

51. Based on Mr. Dubinsky's analysis of the DTC records, Mr. Dubinsky concluded that BLMIS was not trading equities for its IA Business customers. Id. ¶ 208.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term "BLMIS" as defined by the Trustee is misleading. While Dubinsky may have made certain "conclusions," the IA business in fact traded in T-bills on behalf of some of its customers whose statements accurately reflected those trades. CMF ¶¶ 58-91. Moreover, given Dubinsky's perjury at the Nelson trial, it is impossible to credit any of his testimony. Further, see Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19, 21, 28, 41 and 42.

vi. Reported Options Trades Could Not be Reconciled to OCC Records

52. The options purportedly executed for the customer accounts in the IA Business could not be reconciled with the records of the OCC, an organization that clears and settles options transactions in the U.S. market. Id. ¶¶ 196-98.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants object to this statement as neither material nor necessary for the determination of this case. Moreover, Dubinsky's pervasive perjury at the Nelson trial makes all of his testimony incredible. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19, and 21.

53. Mr. Dubinsky explained that BLMIS had a single account with the OCC, and the IA Business purportedly traded S&P Index options ("OEX"), which are "proprietary options" traded exclusively on the Chicago Board of Option Exchange (“CBOE”). These proprietary options can only be traded on the CBOE, but there would be a record of them both from the CBOE and the OCC. Id. ¶¶ 166, 219.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Defendants object to this statement as neither material nor necessary for the determination of this case. Further, given Dubinsky’s perjury at the Nelson trial, it is impossible to credit any of his testimony. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19, 21, 28, 41 and 42.

54. Mr. Dubinsky reviewed the OCC records for the BLMIS account from October 31, 2002 through October 31, 2008. Based on his review of those records, Mr. Dubinsky was able to reconcile and confirm the options that were traded by the proprietary trading business but could not account for the options purportedly traded for the customers in the IA Business. Id. ¶¶ 220–21. Mr. Dubinsky found that the options purportedly traded on behalf of the IA Business customers, as recorded in the IA Business trading records, were not shown on OCC records and were not cleared through the OCC. Id. ¶ 222.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. The IA business traded in T-bills on behalf of some of its customers and accurately reflected those trades on the customers’ statements. See, e.g. CMF ¶¶ 58-91. Further, given Dubinsky’s perjury at the Nelson trial, it is impossible to credit any of his testimony. Defendants also dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19, 21, 28, 41 and 42. Finally, Defendants dispute the admissibility of opinions based on customer statements which the Trustee has refused to produce.

55. For example, on October 31, 2005, records for the proprietary trading business and {00045843 1 } 27 the OCC indicate that 20 options described as “S&P 100 INDEX November 590 Call” were purchased and held by BLMIS. The aggregate number of “S&P 100 INDEX NOVEMBER 590 CALL” options reported on IA Business customer statements for the same date totaled 658,342. Id. ¶ 223.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Response to CSMF ¶ 54; see also Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19, 21, 28, 41 and 42.

56. Based on his analyses, Mr. Dubinsky concluded that BLMIS did not conduct any options trading on behalf of its IA Business customers. Id. ¶ 222.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. The IA business traded in T- bills on behalf of some of its customers and accurately reflected those trades on the customers’ statements. See, e.g. CMF ¶¶ 58-91. Defendants object to this statement as neither material nor necessary for the determination of this case. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the document on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21. Finally, Defendants dispute the admissibility of opinions or other material based on customer statements, which the Trustee has refused to produce.

C. The IA Business Had No Other Sources of Funds

57. During at least the ten-year period before its collapse on December 11, 2008, BLMIS primarily used three bank accounts for the IA Business: the 703 Account; JPMorgan account #xxxxxxxxxx1509 (the “509 Account”, together with the 703 Account, the “JPMorgan Accounts”); and Bankers Trust account #xx-xx0-599 (the “BT Account”). Dubinsky Decl., Attach. A (Dubinsky Report) ¶ 340 n.285; Declaration of Lisa M. Collura, dated August 28, 2020 (“Collura Decl.”), Attach. A (Expert Report of Lisa M. Collura, CPA, CFE, CFF, dated, dated January 16, 2019 (“Collura Report”)) ¶ 17.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the documents on which the Trustee relies. This statement is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21.

58. IA Business customers’ cash deposits were deposited (and commingled) into the 703 Account. Dubinsky Decl., Attach. A (Dubinsky Report) ¶ 340; Collura Decl., Attach. A (Collura Report) ¶¶ 20–24.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants dispute the use of the term “commingled” to the extent the Trustee means anything other than IA business customer funds were held together with other IA business customer funds in the same account. Further, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the documents on which the Trustee relies. This statement is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21.

59. IA Business customer withdrawals were made through the JPMorgan Accounts and the BT Account, which was a checking account entirely funded by the 703 Account during the period for which bank records are available. Collura Decl., Attach. A (Collura Report) ¶¶ 25–30.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the documents on which the Trustee relies. This statement is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). Further, see Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21.

60. The JPMorgan Accounts were linked commercial business accounts. The 509. The 509 Account was a controlled disbursement account that was entirely funded by the 703 Account. Id. ¶ 25. An analysis of the 703 Account showed that the money in that account consisted almost {00045843 1 } entirely of customer deposits. Dubinsky Decl., Attach. A (Dubinsky Report) ¶ 340 n.285; Collura Decl., Attach. A (Collura Report) ¶ 27.

RESPONSE: Disputed, and subject to clarification. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the documents on which the Trustee relies. This statement is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). The IA business in fact traded in T-bills on behalf of some of its customers and accurately reflected those trades on customer statements. CMF ¶¶ 58-91. Further, see Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21.

61. Ninety-seven percent of all cash additions into the 703 Account came directly from IA Business customers. Dubinsky Decl., Attach. A (Dubinsky Report) ¶ 340 n.285, Figure 52; Collura Decl., Attach. A (Collura Report) ¶ 24, Figure 1.

RESPONSE: Disputed. While Defendants do not dispute that Madoff used the 703 Account for his IA business, and deposited customer funds therein, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the documents on which the Trustee relies. This statement is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). Further, the IA business in fact traded in T-bills. CMF ¶¶ 58-91. The receipts from T-Bills were deposited into the 703 Account. CMF ¶ 42. See also Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12 and 21; see e.g. Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 28 and 29.

62. The other three percent of inflows into the 703 Account came from income earned on (1) short-term investment activity made directly from the 703 Account (including overnight sweeps, overnight deposits, commercial paper, Certificates of Deposit and Treasury Bills); and (2) investments of BLMIS customer funds made through bank and brokerage accounts held in the name of BLMIS or Madoff. Collura Decl., Attach. A (Collura Report) ¶¶ 45–62; Dubinsky Decl., Attach. A (Dubinsky Report) Figure 52 & n.286.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the documents on which the Trustee relies. This statement is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). Further, the IA business traded in T-bills on behalf of some of its customers, including Defendants, and accurately reflected those trades on the customer statements. CMF ¶¶ 58-91. The receipts from T-Bills were deposited into the 703 Account. CMF ¶ 42. See also Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12 and 21; see e.g. Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 28 and 29.

63. Because the short-term investments, including overnight sweeps, were made directly out of the 703 Account, the source of the money for those investments was customer funds. Dubinsky Decl., Attach. A (Dubinsky Report) ¶ 340; Collura Decl., Attach. A (Collura Report) ¶¶ 24, 46–47.

RESPONSE: Defendants dispute the admissibility of the documents on which the Trustee relies. This statement is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). This statement is inappropriate argument, rather than a “fact.” Further, see Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12 and 21; see e.g. Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 28 and 29.

64. There were no inflows into the 703 Account from sales of securities for customer accounts. Dubinsky Decl., Attach. A (Dubinsky Report) ¶ 340; Collura Decl., Attach. A (Collura Report) ¶¶ 24, 32.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The IA business traded in T-bills on behalf of various customers including Defendants, and accurately reflected those trades on its customer statements. CMF ¶¶ 58-91. The receipts from T-Bills were deposited into the 703 Account. CMF ¶ 42. Further, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the documents on which the Trustee relies. This statement is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed.R.Civ.P. 56(c); see also Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 21, 28 and 29.

65. There were no outflows from the 703 Account to purchase securities for customer accounts. Dubinsky Decl., Attach. A (Dubinsky Report) ¶ 350; Collura Decl., Attach. A (Collura Report) ¶ 32.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The IA business traded in T-bills on behalf of various customers including Defendants, and accurately reflected those trades on its customer statements. CMF ¶¶ 58-91. Dubinsky admitted at the Nelson trial that the T-bill purchases were funded with customers’ funds taken from the 703 Account. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. I, Nelson Tr. 5/8/19 at 166:17-18; 90:25-91:2; 155:2-4; 154:2-9; see Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 63 and 64; see also Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12 and 21; see e.g. Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 28 and 29.

66. Apart from two short-term loans BLMIS received from JPMorgan totaling $145 million in November 2005 and January 2006—both of which were repaid by June 2006—the IA Business did not obtain loans from third parties or from the proprietary trading and market-making businesses sufficient to pay the IA Business customer withdrawals. Dubinsky Decl., Attach. A (Dubinsky Report) ¶¶ 341-44.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. While Defendants do not dispute the statement that the IA Business did not obtain loans from third parties apart from two short term loans totaling $145 million, and received from JPMC, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the documents on which the Trustee relies. This statement is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). Further, see Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12 and 21; see e.g. Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 28 and 29.

67. The IA Business also did not receive payments of any cash dividends. According to the customer statements, the IA Business reported that it received cash dividends related to purported trading and paid or credited them to the accountholders. Between 1998 and 2008, BLMIS reported that it had paid or credited its customers $4.3 billion in cash dividends. Id. ¶¶ 247-55.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Moreover, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the documents on which the Trustee relies. This statement is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). Further, see Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21.

68. Of the more than 8,300 IA Business dividend transactions identified on the customer account statements from 1998 to 2008, not one purported dividend payment matched to a cash addition to the 703 Account. Id. ¶¶ 253-54.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The IA business in fact traded in T-bills on behalf of some of its customers, including Defendants, and accurately reflected those trades on customer statements. CMF ¶¶ 58-91. Moreover, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the documents on which the Trustee relies. This statement is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). Further, Defendants dispute the admissibility of opinions or other material based on customer statements, which the Trustee has refused to produce. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21; see e.g. Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 28 and 29.

69. There is no record of any dividends being received by the IA business. Id. ¶ 248.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶ 68.

70. The IA Business did not have any legitimate income-producing activities. The only source of cash available for the IA Business to pay purported investment profits as well as {00045843 1 } redemption requests from its customers was from cash that other IA Business customers deposited in the 703 Account. Id. ¶¶ 330-37.

RESPONSE: Disputed. In fact, the IA business was able to transfer between $700 and $800 million to the LLC during the period from 2001 – 2008. Chaitman Ex. I, Nelson Tr. 5/8/19 at 161:3-8 (“hundreds and hundreds of millions of dollars just since 2000 that was transferred from the 703 account [the IA business account] to the Bank of New York account”); id. at 161:20- (the money was “put over to the prop trading business.”); id. at 161:21-162:-2 (Q. “[I]n the period from 2000 through 2008, how much money in total was transferred from the 703 account, which was exclusively investment advisory customers money, to the Bank of New York account, which was exclusively prop trading? A. [A]bout $700 or $800 million.”). See Responses to CSMF ¶ 68.

71. These transactions rendered BLMIS insolvent. By no later than December 2002, its assets totaled approximately $1.82 billion and its liabilities totaled $11.9 billion. Id. at Section VII, ¶¶ 432–33, Table 13.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Response to CSMF ¶ 67. Further, see Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21; see e.g. Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 28 and 29. And given Dubinsky’s flagrant perjury, it is impossible to credit any of his conclusions.

72. In December 2008, BLMIS’s capital had dwindled to the point where customer redemptions or withdrawal requests grossly exceeded the amounts it had on hand. The customer property on hand at BLMIS as of December 11, 2008 was not sufficient to pay the claims of its customers. Id. ¶¶ 40, 440-41.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶ 71.

i. The Transfers Were Made by Bernard L. Madoff Investment Securities LLC

73. BLMIS operated as a sole proprietorship prior to 2001. In January 2001, the sole proprietorship was converted to a single member LLC, using the same SEC registrant number, 8-8132. Cremona Decl., Ex. 3 (Amended Form BD).

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶ 8-12. The IA business was never transferred to the LLC. Moreover, the statement is unsupported by the document on which the Trustee relies. This sentence contains an incorrect predicate that SEC registration effectuates a conversion of a business form. Amended Form BD expressly indicates that Madoff did not transfer the IA business to the LLC. See Chaitman Moving Dec. Ex. I, Amended Form BD.

74. The bank statements for the JPMorgan Accounts listed the account holder as “Bernard L. Madoff” from December 1998 to September 2002, when the name was changed to “Bernard L. Madoff Investment Securities.” Collura Decl., Attach. A (Collura Report) ¶¶ 20 n.7, 25 n.9.

RESPONSE: Undisputed.

75. For the time period for which bank records were available (December 1998 through December 2008), the JPMorgan Accounts were used for customer deposits and withdrawals—the business of the IA Business. Collura Decl., Attach. A (Collura Report) ¶¶ 20–27; Dubinsky Decl., Attach. A (Dubinsky Report) ¶ 340 n.285, Figure, Figure 52.

RESPONSE: Disputed. For the period for which bank records were available, the 703 and 509 Accounts were used for customer deposits and withdrawals, for overnight investments, and to fund purchases of T-bills which were credited to certain customers’ accounts, including Defendants’. CMF ¶¶ 58-91. Moreover, Defendants dispute the admissibility of some of the documents on which the Trustee relies. This statement is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). Further, see Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21; see e.g. Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 28 and 29.

76. For the time period for which bank records were available, the face of the bank statements for the JPMorgan Accounts showed they were designated as “Commercial Checking” accounts. The statements were addressed to the attention of either Tony Tiletnick, a BLMIS employee, or Daniel Bonventre, BLMIS’s operations manager, at the BLMIS business address at 885 Third Avenue, New York, New York. None of the statements were addressed to Madoff personally. Cremona Decl., Ex. 5 (Exemplar BLMIS Bank Statements 1998-2008); Dubinsky Decl., Attach. A (Dubinsky Report) ¶ 340, Exs. 31, 32.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Response to CSMF ¶¶ 71. Further, see Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 12, 19 and 21; and see e.g. Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 28 and 29.

77. At all times after January 1, 2001, the JPMorgan Accounts were owned by BLMIS. Cremona Decl., Ex. 3 (2001 SEC Amended Form BD).

RESPONSE: Disputed. First, the term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 8-13. Second, this statement is not supported by the cited source. To the extent the Trustee purports to describe BLMIS as the LLC, there is no evidence that either the 703 or the 509 Account was ever held in the name of the LLC. On the contrary, all of the evidence indicates that these accounts were always held by Madoff individually. SMF ¶¶ 13-24⁵; see also SMF ¶¶ 11-12, 20. Moreover, Judge Bernstein has rejected the Trustee’s attempt to proffer fabricated evidence purportedly proving that the JPMC Accounts were owned by the LLC through the use of various versions of custodian affidavits. Sec. Inv'r Prot. Corp. v. Bernard L. Madoff Inv. Sec. LLC, 610 B.R. 197, 231 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2019). CMF ¶ 95.

D. The Plea Allocutions

78. The plea allocutions of Madoff and BLMIS employees Frank DiPascali, David Kugel, Irwin Lipkin, and Eric Lipkin, attached as Exhibits 7–12 to the Cremona Decl., further establish that BLMIS did not conduct legitimate operations from its IA Business.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants object to the admissibility of the plea allocutions of Madoff and former BLMIS employees. The allocutions would only be admissible if the facts contained therein are “essential to the judgment.” See FRE 803(22)(C); In re Dreier LLP, 2014 WL 47774, at *11 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. Jan. 3, 2014) (Bernstein, J.) (“A prior judgment of conviction may be used as prima facie evidence in a subsequent civil suit only with respect to matters of fact or law ‘necessarily decided by the conviction and the verdict on which it was based.’”). Here, the Trustee seeks to admit the allocutions on the question of whether a Ponzi scheme presumption may apply. Whether a Ponzi scheme presumption may apply depends upon a showing of the following: (1) little or no legitimate underlying business; (2) the promise of exorbitant returns; (3) early scheduled payment of such returns to early (or “top”) investors; (4) the need to attract new money in order to pay the existing top investors. See Orlick v. Kozyak (In re Fin. Federated Title & Trust, Inc.), 309 F.3d 1325, 1327 n.2 (11th Cir. 2002); Balaber-Strauss v. Lawrence, 264 B.R. 303, 305-06 (S.D.N.Y. 2001). Here, the statements are not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). Further, Defendants never had the opportunity to depose any of these people. And, the term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading

Bernard L. Madoff

79. At a plea hearing on March 12, 2009, in the case captioned United States v. Madoff, No. 09-CR-213(DC), Madoff pleaded guilty to an 11-count criminal action filed against him by the United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York. Plea Allocution of Bernard L. Madoff, United States v. Madoff, No. 09-CR-213 (DC) (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 12, 2009) (the “Madoff Allocution”), ECF No. 57 (attached as Exhibit 7 to Cremona Decl.).

RESPONSE: Undisputed, except that Defendants object to the admissibility of the plea allocutions of Madoff and former BLMIS employees which do not contain facts “essential to the judgment.” See Response to CSMF ¶ 78.

80. At the plea hearing, Madoff admitted he “operated a Ponzi scheme through the investment advisory side of [BLMIS].” Cremona Decl., Ex. 7 (Madoff Allocution) at 23:14-23; 31:25-32:1.

RESPONSE: The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Defendants object to the Trustee’s interpretation of Madoff’s statement. While Madoff admitted to operating a “Ponzi scheme” from 1992-93 on, he did not explain his understanding of what a “Ponzi scheme” is. Moreover, Madoff testified that he used IA customers’ money to purchase T-bills which were credited to specific customers’ accounts. See CMF ¶¶ 31, 35; see also CMF ¶¶ 58-91. Further, Defendants object to the admissibility of the plea allocutions of Madoff and former BLMIS employees which do not contain facts “essential to the judgment.” See Response to CSMF ¶ 78.

81. Madoff further testified at the plea hearing that he never invested his clients’ funds in securities, that he used funds on hand in the JP Morgan account to pay customer redemptions, and that he created false trading confirmations and client account statements to cover up the fact that he had not executed trades on behalf of BLMIS investment advisory clients. Madoff stated:

The essence of my scheme was that I represented to clients and prospective clients who wished to open investment advisory and individual trading accounts with me that I would invest their money in shares of common stock, options, and other securities of large well-known corporations, and upon request, would return to them their profits and principal. Those representations were false for many years up and until I was arrested on December 11, 2008, I never invested these funds in the securities, as I had promised. Instead, those funds were deposited in a bank account at Chase Manhattan Bank. When clients wished to receive the profits they believed they had earned with me or to redeem their principal, I used the money in the Chase Manhattan bank account that belonged to them or other clients to pay the requested funds. The victims of my scheme included individuals, charitable organizations, trusts, pension funds, and hedge funds.

Id. at 24:9-24.

RESPONSE: The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Defendants object to the Trustee’s interpretation of Madoff’s statement and to the admissibility of the plea allocutions on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 78 and 80. Further, although Madoff testified that he did not execute the split strike conversion strategy that he promised customers, he actively traded in T-bills as well as other investments. The proceeds of securities, interest earned on investments and cash deposits enabled him to meet the customer withdrawal requests. Indeed, Madoff testified that, in the entire period from 1960 until mid-2008 (during the global financial collapse), he had never needed new customers’ investments in order to fund customer redemptions. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. C, Madoff Dep. Tr. 4/26/17 at 30:10-22; 31:2-25. On the contrary, during the period from 2001 – 2008, he had transferred $700 to $800 million from the IA business to the LLC. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. I, Nelson Tr. 5/8/19 at 161:21-162:2; see also Chaitman Dec. Ex. G, Madoff Dep. Tr. 12/20/16 at 161:11-162:24.

82. Beginning in the early 1990s, Madoff represented to IA Business customers that he was using a split strike conversion strategy based on blue-chip securities. Id. at 25:18–24.

RESPONSE: Undisputed.

83. Madoff further detailed his strategy as follows:

Through the split strike conversion strategy I promised to clients and prospective clients that client funds would be invested in a basket of common stocks within the Standard & Poors 100 index, a collection of the 100 largest publicly-traded companies in terms of their market capitalization. I promised that I would select a basket of stocks that would closely mimic the price movements of the Standard & Poors 100 index. I promised that I would opportunistically time those purchases and would be out of the market intermittently, investing client funds during these periods in United States Government-issued securities, such as United States Treasury bills. In addition, I promised that as part of the split strike conversion strategy, I would hedge the investments I made in the basket of common stocks by using client funds to buy and sell option contracts related to those stocks, thereby limiting the potential client losses caused by unpredictable changes in stock prices. In fact, I never made those investments I promised clients, who believed they were invested with me in the split strike conversion strategy.

Id. at 25:25-26:18.

RESPONSE: Disputed. As Madoff testified, did not purchase the Fortune 100 company stocks he purported to purchase for his IA customers. However, he did use IA customers' money to purchase T-bills. These were credited to IA customers' accounts. See CMF ¶¶ 31, 35; see also CMF ¶¶ 58-91. After committing flagrant perjury at the Nelson trial, Dubinsky admitted this. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. I, Nelson Tr. 5/8/19 at 166:17-18; 90:25-91:2; 155:2-4; 154:2-9; see also Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 29, 78 and 80.

84. BLMIS investment advisory customers received account statements from BLMIS that purported to reflect securities transactions and investment returns that appeared as though their investments with BLMIS were profitable. Madoff explained:

To further cover up the fact that I had not executed trades on behalf of my investment advisory clients, I knowingly caused false trading confirmations and client account statements that reflected the bogus transactions and positions to be created and sent to clients purportedly involved in the split strike conversion strategy, as well as other individual clients I defrauded who believed they had invested in securities through me.

Id. at 27:9-16.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 78 and 80. Madoff admitted that he didn't purchase the Fortune 100 company stocks shown on the IA customers' statements. However, he did, indisputably, purchase T-bills with IA customers' money. T-Bills appeared on the IA customers' statements. CMF ¶¶ 31, 35; see also CMF ¶¶ 58-91.

85. Madoff stated that the proprietary trading and market-making businesses were engaged in legitimate trading. Id. at 25:6-11.

RESPONSE: Undisputed, however Defendants object to the admissibility of the plea allocutions on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 78 and 80. Madoff also stated that funds from his investment advisory business were transferred to the proprietary trading and market making businesses, via his affiliated London entity. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. T, Madoff Allocution at 29:12-22.

86. Madoff also stated that funds from his investment advisory business were transferred to the proprietary trading and market-making businesses, via his affiliated London entity. Id. at 29:12-22.

RESPONSE: Undisputed that Madoff generated enough income in the IA business that, during the period from 2001 – 2008 he was able to transfer between $700 and 800 million to the LLC. Chaitman Dec. Ex. I, Nelson Tr. 5/8/19 at 161:3-8 (“hundreds and hundreds of millions of dollars just since 2000 that was transferred from the 703 account [the IA business account] to the Bank of New York account”); id. at 161:20- (the money was “put over to the prop trading business.”); id. at 161:21-162:-2 (Q. “[I]n the period from 2000 through 2008, how much money in total was transferred from the 703 account, which was exclusively investment advisory customers money, to the Bank of New York account, which was exclusively prop trading? A. [A]bout $700 or $800 million.”).

Frank DiPascali

87. At plea hearing on August 11, 2009, in the case captioned United States v. DiPascali, No. 09-CR-764 (RJS), Frank DiPascali, a former BLMIS employee, pleaded guilty to a ten-count criminal action charging him with participating in and conspiring to perpetuate the Ponzi scheme. Plea Allocution of Frank DiPascali, Jr., United States v. DiPascali, No. 09-CR- 764 (RJS) (S.D.N.Y. Aug. 11, 2009) (the “DiPascali Allocution”), ECF No. 12 (attached as Exhibit 8 to Cremona Decl.). Mr. DiPascali confirmed Madoff’s explanation of the split-strike conversion strategy and that BLMIS never engaged in the strategy or executed the purported trades reported on customer statements. DiPascali stated:

By the early 1990s Bernie Madoff had stable clients whose accounts he managed as an investment adviser. He attracted a lot of these clients by telling them that the firm would apply a hedged investment strategy to their money. The clients were told that the strategy involved purchasing what we call basket of blue chip common stocks. Hedging those investments by buying and selling option contracts, getting in and out of the market at opportune times and investing in government securities at other times. . . . From at least the early 1990s through December of 2008, there was one simple fact that Bernie Madoff knew, that I knew, and that other people knew but that we never told the clients nor did we tell the regulators like the SEC. No purchases of [sic] sales of securities were actually taking place in their accounts. It was all fake. It was all fictitious. It was wrong and I knew it was wrong at the time, sir.

Cremona Decl., Ex. 8 (DiPascali Allocution) at 45:21-46:15.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Defendants further dispute the admissibility of the plea allocutions on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 78 and 80. Moreover, DiPascali was not charged with “participating in and conspiring to perpetuate the Ponzi scheme”. He was charged with conspiracy to commit securities fraud and investment advisory fraud, among other federal crimes.

88. At the plea hearing, DiPascali testified that he had been instructed to falsely represent to clients that security trading was occurring in their investment accounts when in fact, no trades were being made. DiPascali explained:

From our office in Manhattan at Bernie Madoff's direction, and together with others, I represented to hundreds, if not thousands, of clients that security trades were being placed in their accounts when in fact no trades were taking place at all.

Id. at 46:21-25.

Most of the time the clients' money just simply went into a bank account in New York that Bernie Madoff controlled. Between the early '90s and December '08 at Bernie Madoff's direction, and together with others, I did [the] follow[ing] things: On a regular basis I told clients over the phones and using wires that transactions on national securities exchanges were taking place in their account when I knew that no such transactions were indeed taking place. I also took steps to conceal from clients, from the SEC, and from auditors the fact that no actual security trades were taking place and to perpetuate the illusion that they actually were. On a regular basis I used hindsight to file historical prices on stocks then I used those prices to post purchase of sales to customer accounts as if they had been executed in realtime. On a regular basis I added fictitious trade data to account statements of certain clients to reflect the specific rate of return that Bernie Madoff had directed for that client.

Id. at 47:5-22.

... I knew no trades were happening. I knew I was participating in a fraudulent scheme. I knew what was happening was criminal and I did it anyway.

Id. at 52:2-5.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Defendants object to the Trustee's interpretation of Madoff's statement. Further, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the plea allocutions on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 78, 80 and 87. Moreover, the Trustee relies on that part of the plea where DiPascali, as the first cooperating witness, points the finger at others and makes the kind of exculpatory comments that are inadmissible hearsay. See Fed. R. Evid. 804 and Response to CSMF ¶ 87.

David Kugel

89. At a plea hearing on November 21, 2011, in the case captioned United States v. Kugel, No. 10-CR-228 (LTS), David Kugel, a former BLMIS trader and manager, pleaded guilty to a six-count criminal action charging him with securities fraud, falsifying the records of BLMIS, conspiracy, and bank fraud. Plea Allocution of David L. Kugel, United States v. Kugel, No. 10-CR-228 (LTS) (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 21, 2011) (the “Kugel Allocution”), ECF No. 188 (attached as Exhibit 9 to Cremona Decl.).

RESPONSE: The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the plea allocutions on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 78, 80 and 87.

On or about November 11, a Superseding Information was filed against David Kugel. United States v. Kugel, No. 10- CR-228 (LTS) (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 21, 2011), ECF No. 188. At his plea hearing on that date, Kugel admitted to six charges, none of which involved an alleged Ponzi scheme. Kugel required him to testify that he was engaged in a Ponzi scheme or that BLMIS used other peoples’ money to satisfy redemptions, nor did he so testify, and did not plead guilty to participating in a Ponzi scheme. As a result of his assistance in providing evidence against other employees, he served no jail time. Kugel Allocution at 14-16.

90. As far as back as the 1970s, there is no evidence that the purported investment transactions reflected in the customer statements of BLMIS’s IA Business customers ever occurred, and in fact the evidence reveals that those transactions did not and could not have occurred. Cremona Decl., Ex. 9 (Kugel Allocution) at 32:4–12 (“Specifically, beginning the early ‘70s, until the collapse of BLMIS in December 2008, I helped create fake, backdated trades. I provided historical trade information . . . to create fake trades that, when included on the account statements and trade confirmations of Investment Advisory clients, gave the appearance of profitable trading when in fact no trading had actually occurred.”).

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the plea allocutions on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 78, 80 and 87. Kugel’s testimony is disputed by the testimony of Madoff and DiPascali, both of whom testified that Madoff’s fraud began in the 1990s. Chaitman Dec. Ex. G, Madoff Dep. Tr. 12/20/2016 at 13:10-14:3; 14:22-15:9; 26:20; 56:24-25; Chaitman Dec. Ex. L, United States v. Bonventre, 10-CR-228 (LTS) (S.D.N.Y.) (“DiPascali Testimony”), at 5344:18-20; see also Cremona Decl. Ex. 8 at 47:7-22, DiPascali Allocution. Moreover, Kugel’s testimony is contradicted by Dubinsky’s admissions on cross-examination at the Nelson trial that Madoff used IA customers’ funds to purchase T-bills, which were credited to some customers’ accounts. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. I, Nelson Tr. 5/8/19 at 166:17-18; 90:25-91:2; 155:2-4; 154:2-9. Further, Defendants dispute the admissibility of opinions or other material based on customer statements, which the Trustee has refused to produce.

Irwin Lipkin

91. At a plea hearing on November 8, 2012, in the case captioned United States v. Irwin Lipkin, No. 10-CR-228 (LTS), Irwin Lipkin, a former BLMIS accountant, pleaded guilty to a two-count criminal action charging him with securities fraud, falsifying the records of BLMIS, and making false statements in relation to documents required by ERISA. Plea Allocution of Irwin Lipkin, United States v. Irwin Lipkin, No. 10-CR-228 (LTS) (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 8, 2012) (the “Irwin Lipkin Allocution”), ECF No. 288 (attached as Exhibit 10 to Cremona Decl.). Mr. Lipkin admitted that BLMIS’s revenue was falsely inflated through fraudulent bookkeeping entries and annual audited reports. Cremona Decl., Ex. 10 (Irwin Lipkin Allocution) at 30:23-31:3, 31:10-18, 31:24-{00045843 1 }

32:5.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the plea allocution on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 78, 80 and 87. Moreover, the revenue in question was never characterized as “BLMIS” revenue. Also, Lipkin was not charged with and did not plead guilty to participating in a Ponzi scheme. Defendants had no opportunity to depose Lipkin. The testimony referred to herein is not “essential”. See FRE 803(2)(C).

Eric S. Lipkin

92. At a plea hearing on June 6, 2011, in the case captioned United States v. Eric S. Lipkin, No. 10-CR-228 (LTS), Eric Lipkin, a former BLMIS payroll clerk, pleaded guilty to a six-count criminal action charging him with bank fraud, falsifying the records of BLMIS, conspiracy, and making false statements to facilitate a theft concerning ERISA. Plea Allocution of Eric S. Lipkin, United States v. Eric S. Lipkin, No. 10-CR-228 (LTS) (S.D.N.Y. June 6, 2011) (the “Eric Lipkin Allocution”), ECF No. 148 (attached as Exhibit 11 to Cremona Decl.).

RESPONSE: Subject to clarification. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Further, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the plea allocutions on which the Trustee relies. See Response to CSMF ¶ 78.

On June 6, 2011, a Superseding Information was filed against Eric Lipkin. United States v. Eric S. Lipkin, No. 10-CR-228 (LTS) (S.D.N.Y. June 6, 2011) ECF No. 148. On that date, Lipkin pleaded guilty to six charges Eric Lipkin Allocution at 15-19: none of which required him to testify that Madoff conducted a Ponzi scheme, or that early redeeming investors were paid with later investors’ money or that redemptions were made with other people’s money and he did not so testify. Lipkin also agreed to cooperate with the Government. Id. at 27. He was not charged with conspiracy to perpetuate a Ponzi scheme. See also Response to CSMF ¶ 87. Defendants had no opportunity to depose Lipkin.

93. Mr. Eric Lipkin admitted that BLMIS created fake reports that replicated those of the DTC, which provides clearance for nearly all equity, bond, government securities, mortgage-backed securities, money market instruments, and over-the-counter derivative transactions in the U.S. Market. The purpose of these fake DTC reports was to purportedly confirm non-existent positions in the IA accounts, and the fake reports were given to auditors and the SEC to mislead them. Cremona Decl., Ex. 11 (Eric Lipkin Allocution) at 32:4-10, 33:22-34:8.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the plea allocutions on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 78, 80 and 87.

Enrica Cotellessa-Pitz

94. At a plea hearing on December 19, 2011, in the case captioned United States v. Cotellessa-Pitz, No. 10-CR-228 (LTS), Enrica Cotellessa-Pitz, a former BLMIS accountant and comptroller, pleaded guilty to a four-count criminal action charging her with conspiracy to falsify the records of BLMIS, conspiracy to obstruct the IRS in the collection of income taxes, and conspiracy to make false filings with the SEC. Plea Allocution of Enrica Cotellessa-Pitz, United States v. Cotellessa-Pitz, No. 10-CR-228 (LTS) (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 19, 2011) (the “Cotellessa-Pitz Allocution”), ECF No. 1512 (attached as Exhibit 12 to Cremona Decl.).

RESPONSE: Disputed, insofar as the statement above does not properly reflect the charges against Ms. Cotellessa-Pitz. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the plea allocutions on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 78 and 80.

On December 19, 2011, an Information was filed against Ms. Cotellessa-Pitz. United States v. Enrica Cotellessa-Pitz, S5 10 Cr. 288 (LTS). She pleaded guilty to four charges, none of which required her to admit or testify that BLMIS was a Ponzi scheme, that early redeeming investors were paid with later investors' money or that redemptions to customers were made with other peoples' money and she did not so admit Chaitman Dec. Ex. U at 14-17. Cotellessa-Pitz agreed to cooperate with the Government (Chaitman Dec. Ex. U at 23) and as a result of her cooperation and testimony about Madoff and others, she was not given a jail sentence. Even if Cotellessa-Pitz's testimony is admissible, she was not charged with perpetrating a Ponzi scheme. See Response to CSMF ¶ 87.

95. Ms. Cotellessa-Pitz admitted that IA Business customer money was funneled to BLMIS's proprietary trading and market making businesses to falsely inflate their revenue and hide their losses. Cremona Decl., Ex. 12 (Cotellessa-Pitz Allocution) at 31:12-32:12.

RESPONSE: Undisputed, however the term "BLMIS" as defined by the Trustee is misleading, and Defendants dispute the admissibility of the plea allocution on which the Trustee relies. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 78 and 80. Notably, however, the testimony of Cotellessa-Pitz establishes that the IA Business was never short of cash and, in fact, the IA Business had sufficient excess cash that it transferred $700 - $800 million to the LLC in the period following 2000. See Chaitman Dec. Ex. I, Nelson Tr. 5/8/19 at 161:3-8 ("hundreds and hundreds of millions of dollars just since 2000 that was transferred from the 703 account [the IA business account] to the Bank of New York account"); id. at 161:20- (the money was "put over to the prop trading business."); id. at 161:21-162:2 (Q. "[I]n the period from 2000 through 2008, how much money in total was transferred from the 703 account, which was exclusively investment advisory customers money, to the Bank of New York account, which was exclusively prop trading? A. [A]bout $700 or $800 million.”).

III. The Kamenstein Accounts⁶

A. The Carol Account

96. Defendant Carol L. Kamenstein (“Carol”) is a resident of West Palm Beach, Florida. Ans. ¶ 7, Picard v. Kamenstein, Adv. Pro. No. 10-04469 (SMB) (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. Aug.13, 2015), ECF No. 43.

RESPONSE: Undisputed.

97. Carol was a customer of the IA Business and held BLMIS Account No. 1CM914 (the “Carol Account”) in the name of “Carol Kamenstein” Id. ¶¶ 7, 37; see also Ex. B to Compl., ECF No. 1.

RESPONSE: Undisputed to the extent that Carol was a customer of the IA Business and held the Carol Account. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading.

98. Carol does not dispute the deposits and withdrawals as reflected on Exhibit B to the Complaint from December 11, 2006 to December 11, 2008. Cremona Decl., Ex. 13 (Second Amended Responses and Objections of Defendants Carol L. Kamenstein, David R. Kamenstein, Sloan G. Kamenstein, and Tracy D. Kamenstein to Trustee’s First Set of Interrogatories dated May 18, 2017 No. 9); see also Ex. B to Compl., ECF No. 1.

RESPONSE: Undisputed

99. On February 22, 2017, David testified that the withdrawals from BLMIS for the

⁶ The Trustee seeks to claw back withdrawals from four accounts: Account No. 1CM913 (the “David Account”), Account No. 1CM914 (the “Carol Account”), Account No. 1CM596 (the “Tracy Trust Account”) and Account No. 1CM597 (the “Sloan Trust Account”), (collectively “the Kamenstein Accounts”).

Carol Account between December 27, 2004 to December 2, 2008 (the date of the last withdrawal) are accurately reflected on Exhibit B to the Complaint. Cremona Decl., Ex. 14 (Defendant David R. Kamenstein Dep. Tr.) at 91:15–18.

RESPONSE: The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Undisputed, to the extent that David’s testimony was limited to the documents that were prepared by and presented to him by the Trustee. David testified that he has no reason to dispute “what we’ve checked.” Id. at 91:18.

B. The David Account

100. Defendant David R. Kamenstein (“David”) is a resident of West Palm Beach, Florida. Ans. ¶ 8, ECF No. 43.

RESPONSE: Undisputed.

101. David was a customer of the IA Business and held BLMIS Account No. 1CM913 (the “David Account”) in the name of “David R. Kamenstein.” Id. ¶¶ 8, 37; see also Ex. B to Compl., ECF No 1.

RESPONSE: Undisputed to the extent that David was a customer of the IA Business and held the David Account. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading.

102. David does not dispute the deposits and withdrawals as reflected on Exhibit B to the Complaint from December 11, 2006 to December 11, 2008. Cremona Decl., Ex. 13 (Second Amended Responses and Objections of Defendants Carol L. Kamenstein, David R. Kamenstein, Sloan G. Kamenstein, and Tracy D. Kamenstein to Trustee’s First Set of Interrogatories dated May 18, 2017 No. 9); see also Ex. B to Compl.

RESPONSE: Undisputed.

103. On February 22, 2017, David testified that the withdrawals from BLMIS for the David Account between December 27, 2004 to December 2, 2008 (the date of the last withdrawal) are accurately reflected on Exhibit B to the Complaint. Cremona Decl., Ex. 14 (Defendant David R. Kamenstein Dep. Tr.) at 91:15–18.

RESPONSE: See Response to CSMF ¶ 99.

C. The Sloan Account

104. Defendant Sloan G. Kamenstein (“Sloan”) is a resident of Palm Beach, Florida. Ans. ¶ 9, ECF No. 43.

RESPONSE: Undisputed.

105. Sloan was a customer of the IA Business and held BLMIS Account No. 1CM597 (the “Sloan Account”) in the name of “Sloan G. Kamenstein.” Id. ¶¶ 9, 37; see also Ex. B to Compl., ECF No. 1.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Sloan was not a customer of the IA Business and did not hold Account No. 1CM597. Account No. 1CM597 (the “Sloan Trust Account”) was held by the 1984 Sloan George Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust opened by Carol as Trustee and managed by David. E.g. CMF ¶ 16, 22. Additionally, the term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading.

106. Sloan does not dispute the deposits and withdrawals as reflected on Exhibit B to the Complaint from December 11, 2006 to December 11, 2008. Cremona Decl., Ex. 13 (Second Amended Responses and Objections of Defendants Carol L. Kamenstein, David R. Kamenstein, Sloan G. Kamenstein, and Tracy D. Kamenstein to Trustee’s First Set of Interrogatories dated May 18, 2017 No. 9); see also Ex. B to Compl.

RESPONSE: Undisputed.

107. On February 22, 2017, David testified that the withdrawals from BLMIS for the Sloan Account between September 7, 1999 and December 2, 2008 (the date of the last withdrawal) are accurately reflected on Exhibit B to the Complaint. Cremona Decl., Ex. 14 (Defendant David R. Kamenstein Dep. Tr.) at 91:15–18.

RESPONSE: See Response to CSMF ¶ 99.

D. The Tracy Account

108. Defendant Tracy D. Kamenstein (“Tracy”) is a resident of Palm Beach, Florida. Ans. ¶ 10, ECF No. 43.

RESPONSE: Undisputed.

109. Tracy was a customer of the IA Business and held BLMIS Account No. 1CM596 (the “Tracy Account”) in the name of “Tracy D. Kamenstein.” Id. ¶¶ 10, 37; see also Ex. B to Compl., ECF No. 1.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Tracy was not a customer of the IA Business and did not hold Account No. 1CM596. Account No. 1CM596 (the “Tracy Trust Account”) was held by the 1984 Tracy Dara Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust which was opened and managed by David as Trustee. E.g. CMF ¶ 19, 22. Additionally, the term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading.

110. On March 21, 2005, Tracy signed and submitted to BLMIS a change of address request for “future mailings, account statements, checks” from BLMIS. Cremona Decl., Ex. 16 (Tracy Kamenstein Verification of Address Change).

RESPONSE: Disputed. The document speaks for itself, however, the Trustee’s statement calls for clarification. This form listed David’s home address, “273 Tangier Avenue, Palm Beach Fl. 33480”, and was dated April 15, 2005 Id.; see CMF ¶ 26). David requested the change of address .See Chaitman Dec. Ex. V, Letter from David Kamenstein to Jodi Crupi dated March 15, 2005, [AMF000267637].

111. Tracy does not dispute the deposits and withdrawals as reflected on Exhibit B to the Complaint from December 11, 2006 to December 11, 2008. Cremona Decl., Ex. 13 (Second Amended Responses and Objections of Defendants Carol L. Kamenstein, David R. Kamenstein, Sloan G. Kamenstein, and Tracy D. Kamenstein to Trustee's First Set of Interrogatories dated May 18, 2017 No. 9); see also Ex. B to Compl.

RESPONSE: Undisputed.

112. On February 22, 2017, David testified that the withdrawals from BLMIS for the Tracy Account between September 7, 1999 and December 2, 2008 (the date of the last withdrawal) are accurately reflected on Exhibit B to the Complaint. Cremona Decl., Ex. 14 (Defendant David R. Kamenstein Dep. Tr.) at 91:15–18.

RESPONSE: See Response to CSMF ¶ 99.

IV. Analysis of the Kamenstein Accounts

113. Lisa Collura was retained by the Trustee to reconcile the cash transactions reflected on the statements of all BLMIS customer accounts with available records and trace the flow of those funds for the Kamenstein Defendants. Collura Decl., Attach. A (Collura Report) ¶ 7; Collura Decl., Attach. B (Expert Report of Lisa M. Collura, CPA, CFE, CFF, dated June 14, 2019 (“Collura Kamenstein Report”)) ¶ 6.

RESPONSE: The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Defendants dispute the admissibility of the documents on which the above statement is based. It is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). Defendants also object to any analysis based on the statements of the customer accounts because they are derived from hearsay (Fed. R. Evid. 801, 802) contained in Madoff's internal records which, the Trustee's own expert admitted, were "permeated with fraud." See e.g. Response to CSMF ¶ 21. Additionally, Collura biased her conclusions by including different kinds of transactions together.

114. For both reconciliation and tracing analyses, Ms. Collura reviewed available third-party bank records. These bank records include hundreds of thousands of pages of BLMIS bank statements, wire transfer data, cancelled checks, and deposit slips. Collura Decl., Attach. A (Collura Report) ¶ 10.

RESPONSE: Undisputed only insofar as this statement recites the tasks Collura performed. However, the term "BLMIS" as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Further, see Response to CSMF ¶ 113.

115. The reconciliation of the customer statements and bank records was conducted to determine whether the cash transactions on the BLMIS customer statements were accurately reflected as cash transactions—cash deposits or cash withdrawals. Id. ¶¶ 10, 15, 31.

RESPONSE: The term "BLMIS" as defined by the Trustee is misleading and see Response to CSMF ¶ 113.

116. Ms. Collura confirmed that the deposit and withdrawal transactions identified on the BLMIS customer statements corresponded to transactions on the available third-party bank records in the same amount, on or around the same date, and to or for the benefit of the same customer. Id. ¶ 22; Collura Decl., Attach. B (Collura Kamenstein Report) ¶ 13.

RESPONSE: The term "BLMIS" as defined by the Trustee is misleading and see Response to CSMF ¶ 113.

117. Ms. Collura reviewed over 225,000 transactions on the customer statements, and over 150,000 transactions on the bank records. Collura Decl., Attach. A (Collura Report) ¶¶ 10, 15. She kept track of these transactions by assigning a unique identifier to each of the cash transactions on the customer statements and a different unique identifying number to all of the transactions in the bank records. Id. ¶¶ 10, 23.

RESPONSE: See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113 and 114.

118. Of the over 225,000 transactions reflected on BLMIS customer statements from December 1998 to December 2008, Ms. Collura was able to reconcile 99.01% of these cash transactions to BLMIS bank records. Id. ¶¶ 15, 31.

RESPONSE: The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. See Response to CSMF ¶ 113.

119. For Ms. Collura’s reconciliation analysis with respect to Defendants, she analyzed the cash transactions in the Kamenstein Accounts from September 1999 to December 2008. During this time period, the customer statements for the Kamenstein Account reflected 206 cash deposit and withdrawal transactions. Collura Decl., Attach. B (Collura Kamenstein Report) ¶¶ 14.

RESPONSE: See Responses to CSMF ¶ 113 and 114. Additionally, Defendants object to the Trustee’s Principal Balance Calculations on the grounds that the Trustee lacks third-party evidence to support its conclusions.

120. She reconciled all 206 cash transactions reflected on the customer statements for the Kamenstein Accounts to available BLMIS bank records, documentation contained in BLMIS customer files, and/or documents produced to the Trustee related to the Kamenstein Accounts. Id. ¶¶ 14–21; see also Ex. B. to Compl.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Additionally, see Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113 and 119.

121. Based on her review of documents contained in the customer files maintained at BLMIS for the Kamenstein Accounts, Ms. Collura did not find any instance of the Defendants communicating to BLMIS any disagreement with respect to the accuracy of any cash transaction reflected on the customer statements for the Kamenstein Accounts. Collura Decl., Attach. B (Collura Kamenstein Report) ¶¶ 13, 22.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Additionally, see Response to CSMF ¶ 113.

122. For Ms. Collura’s tracing analysis with respect to the Defendants, she analyzed 84 cash withdrawals from the Kamenstein Accounts during the two years prior to December 11, 2008 (the “Two-Year Period”) totaling $2,987,100. Id. ¶¶ 23–26, Exs. 5–6.

RESPONSE: Undisputed only insofar as it recites the tasks Collura performed. Disputed as to the remainder. See Response to CSMF ¶ 113.

123. Based on available bank records from BLMIS, bank records produced to the Trustee by Wells Fargo Bank, and correspondence related to the cash withdrawals from the Kamenstein Accounts produced to the Trustee by Defendants, Collura concluded that of the $2,987,100, the total amount of cash withdrawals reflected on the customer statements for the Kamenstein Accounts during the Two-Year Period, $2,876,300 went to a bank account held jointly by all four Defendants, and $30,000 went to a bank account held solely by Sloan. The remaining $80,800 relating to four cash withdrawals from the Kamenstein Accounts dated July 2, 2008 could not be traced to any account number or account holder. Id. ¶¶ 28–30, and Exs. 5–6.

RESPONSE: Disputed. Collura concluded that the withdrawals “were deposited into an account held by defendants Carol L. Kamenstein and David R. Kamenstein account number #xxxxxx5822.” See ECF No. 128-21, Collura Report at ¶ 28 (“Based on documents included in in BLMIS customer files, the “CKDK CAP account” is account #xxxxxx5822 at First Union Bank (which merged with Wachovia in 2001) held by defendants David and Carol Kamenstein.”; “I have therefore concluded that when the instructions are to put funds from BLMIS into the CKDK CAP account, the BLMIS funds were deposited into an account held by defendants Carol L. Kamenstein and David R. Kamenstein with account number #xxxxxx5822.”); ECF No. 128-27, Collura Report, Ex. 6, “Reconciliation and Tracing Results” at n.6. Further, Collura concluded that $30,000 went to an account with all four family members’ name on it. See id., Collura Report, Ex. 6, “Reconciliation and Tracing Results” at 23-24 [10-04469 WFB 0001289; 10-04469 WFB 0001299]. Further, the term “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113 and 119.

124. Matthew Greenblatt oversaw the task of reconstructing BLMIS’s books and records and calculating the principal balance for each BLMIS account (the “Principal Balance Calculation”). Mr. Greenblatt calculated the ending principal balance by applying the Net Investment Method (the Trustee’s cash in/cash out net equity methodology), which takes into account all of the customer deposits as additions to principal and all of the customer withdrawals or inter-account transfers as reductions to principal. Declaration of Matthew B. Greenblatt, dated August 28, 2020 (“Greenblatt Decl.”), Attach. A (Expert Report of Matthew G. Greenblatt, CPA/CFF, CFE dated November 15, 2012 (“Greenblatt Report”)) ¶¶ 4–5, 13–19; see also Sec. Inv’r Prot. Corp. v. Bernard L. Madoff Inv. Sec. LLC (In re Bernard L. Madoff Inv. Sec.), 424 B.R. 122 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2010).

RESPONSE: Undisputed insofar as it recites the tasks that Greenblatt performed. However, Defendants dispute the admissibility of the documents on which the statement is based. It is not “followed by citation to evidence which would be admissible.” Local Civ. R. 56.1; Fed.

R. Civ. P. 56(c). Defendants also object to the Trustee's Principal Balance Calculations. They are derived from hearsay (Fed. R. Evid. 801, 802). BLMIS's books and records were "permeated with fraud." See Response to CSMF ¶ 21. Summaries derived from inadmissible hearsay cannot constitute a Rule 1006 summary. Hackett v Hous. Auth. of City of San Antonio, 750 F2d 1308, 1312 (5th Cir. 1985) (citing Soden v. Freightliner Corp., 714 F.2d 498, 506 (5th Cir. 1983)). Defendants object to the Trustee's Principal Balance Calculations to the extent there is no third-party evidence to support its conclusions.

125. Mr. Greenblatt prepared a chronological listing of cash and principal transactions reflected in the BLMIS customer statements. Greenblatt Decl., Attach. A (Greenblatt Report) ¶¶ 13–15. Mr. Greenblatt relied on the customer statements because they are the most comprehensive and complete accounting of the debtor's books and records with respect to transaction-by-transaction line item detail of the cash and principal transactions and because the customer statements were sent to customers, giving customers the opportunity to correct errors on the statements. Greenblatt Decl., Attach. A (Greenblatt Report) ¶¶ 40–43, Exs. 3–4.

RESPONSE: See Response to CSMF ¶ 124.

126. The first monthly customer statement which reported dollar amounts for any securities allegedly held at month end was March of 1981. Therefore, the full period in which the Principal Balance Calculation could be performed covered the 27-year period for which customer statements were available in the BLMIS books and records—the time period from April 1, 1981 through December 11, 2008. Id. ¶ 5 n.1.

RESPONSE: See Response to CSMF ¶ 124.

127. For Mr. Greenblatt's analysis with respect to Defendants, his Principal Balance Calculation covered the period from the Kamenstein Accounts opening through December 11, 2008. Greenblatt Decl., Attach. B (Expert Report of Matthew B. Greenblatt, CPA/CFF, CFE dated June 14, 2019 (“Greenblatt Kamenstein Report”)) ¶¶ 1–4.

RESPONSE: See Response to CSMF ¶ 124.

A. The Carol Account

128. Mr. Greenblatt determined that on December 27, 2004, the Carol Account (No. 1CM914) was opened with an inter-account transfer from BLMIS Account No. 1CM247 in the amount of $3,146,642. However, due to the negative principal balance in BLMIS Account No. 1CM247, this reported inter-account transfer constituted fictitious profits. Id. ¶¶ 20–21, 55, Exs. 4A, 4E.

RESPONSE: Disputed. This transfer provided the Carol Account with $3,146,642 in principal and was wrongly credited by the Trustee. Additionally, the terms “fictitious profits” and “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee are misleading. See Response to CSMF ¶ 124.

129. Subsequent to this initial inter-account transfer, on January 31, 2005, there was an inter-account transfer from BLMIS Account No. 1CM247 to the Carol Account in the amount of $686. However, this amount was not credited as principal into the Carol Account because this reported inter-account transfer constituted fictitious profits. Id. ¶¶ 20–21, 56, Exs. 4A, 4E.

RESPONSE: Disputed. This transfer provided the Carol Account with $686 in principal and was wrongly credited by the Trustee. Additionally, the terms “fictitious profits” and “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee are misleading. See Response to CSMF ¶ 124.

130. Additionally, between December 27, 2004 and December 11, 2008, there were two cash deposits via check and wire into the Carol Account in the aggregate amount of $113,600, all representing principal. Id. ¶ 57, Ex. 3. In sum, these two inter-account transfers and two cash deposits provided the Carol Account with a total of $113,600 of principal. Id., Ex. 3.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The Carol Account received two transfers in the amounts of $3,146,642 and $686 consisting of principal which the Trustee has failed to credit. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 124, 128 and 129.

131. Between December 27, 2004 and December 11, 2008, the Carol Account reflected a total of 39 cash withdrawals totaling $2,377,040. Id. ¶ 58.

RESPONSE: Undisputed.

132. The Principal Balance Calculation for the Carol Account demonstrated that between December 27, 2004 and December 11, 2008, $2,377,040 was withdrawn from BLMIS, which consisted of $113,600 of principal and an additional $2,263,440 of funds withdrawn in excess of principal, representing fictitious profits withdrawn over the life of the Carol Account. Id. ¶ 59, Ex. 4E.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113, 124, 128 129 and 130. Additionally, the terms “fictitious profits” and “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee are misleading.

133. Within the Two-Year Period prior to December 11, 2008, $907,300 of fictitious profits was withdrawn from the Carol Account. Id.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113, 124, 128, 129 and 130. Further, the term “fictitious profits” as defined by the Trustee is misleading.

134. It is therefore undisputed that, during the Two-Year Period, Carol withdrew $907,300 in excess of principal deposited in the Carol Account. Id.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113, 124, 128, 129 and 130. Further, Defendants object to the Trustee’s Principal Balance Calculations. They are derived from hearsay (Fed. R. Evid. 801, 802). As the Trustee’s own expert admitted, BLMIS’s books and records were “permeated with fraud.” See Response to CSMF ¶ 21. Summaries derived from inadmissible hearsay cannot constitute a Rule 1006 summary. Hackett v Hous. Auth. of City of San Antonio, 750 F2d 1308, 1312 (5th Cir. 1985) (citing Soden v. Freightliner Corp., 714 F.2d 498, 506 (5th Cir. 1983)). Additionally, Defendants object to the Trustee’s Principal Balance Calculations to the extent the Trustee has no third-party evidence to support its conclusions.

B. The David Account

135. Mr. Greenblatt determined that on December 27, 2004, the David Account (No. 1CM913) was opened with an inter-account transfer from BLMIS Account No. 1CM247 in the amount of $3,146,642. However, due to the negative principal balance in BLMIS Account No. 1CM247, this reported inter-account transfer constituted fictitious profits. Id. ¶¶ 20–21, 66. Exs. 4A, 4F.

RESPONSE: Disputed. This transfer provided the David Account with $3,146,642 in principal, which the Trustee has wrongly credited. Additionally, the terms “fictitious profits” and “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee are misleading. See Response to CSMF ¶ 124.

136. Subsequent to this initial inter-account transfer, on January 31, 2005, there was an inter-account transfer from BLMIS Account No. 1CM247 to the David Account in the amount of $686. However, this amount was not credited as principal into the David Account because this reported inter-account transfer constituted fictitious profits. Id. ¶¶ 20–21, 67, Exs. 4A, 4F.

RESPONSE: Disputed. This transfer provided the David Account with $686 in principal, which the Trustee has wrongly credited. Additionally, the terms “fictitious profits” and “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee are misleading. See Response to CSMF ¶ 124.

137. Additionally, between December 27, 2004 and December 11, 2008, there were two cash deposits via check and wire into the David Account in the aggregate amount of $113,600, all representing principal. Id. ¶ 68, Ex. 3. In sum, two inter-account transfers and two cash deposits provided the David Account with a total of $113,600 of principal. Id., Ex. 3.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The David Account received two transfers in the amounts of $3,146,642 and $686 consisting of principal which the Trustee has failed to credit. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 124, 135 and 136.

138. Between December 27, 2004 and December 11, 2008, the David Account reflected a total of 39 cash withdrawals totaling $2,377,040. Id. ¶ 69.

RESPONSE: Undisputed.

139. The Principal Balance Calculation for the David Account demonstrated that between December 27, 2004 and December 11, 2008, $2,377,040 was withdrawn from BLMIS, which consisted of $113,600 of principal and an additional $2,263,440 of funds withdrawn in excess of principal, representing fictitious profits withdrawn over the life of the David Account. Id. ¶ 70, Ex. 4F.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113, 124, 135, 136 and 137. Additionally, the terms “fictitious profits” and “BLMIS” as defined by the Trustee are misleading.

140. Within the Two-Year Period prior to December 11, 2008, $907,300 of fictitious profits was withdrawn from the David Account. Id.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 114, 124, 135, 136 and 137. Further, the term “fictitious profits” as defined by the Trustee is misleading.

141. It is therefore undisputed that, during the Two-Year Period, David withdrew $907,300 in excess of principal deposited in the David Account. Id.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113, 124, 135, 136 and 137. Further, Defendants object to the Trustee’s Principal Balance Calculations. They are derived from hearsay (Fed. R. Evid. 801, 802). As the Trustee's own expert admitted, BLMIS's books and records were "permeated with fraud." See Response to CSMF ¶ 21. Summaries derived from inadmissible hearsay cannot constitute a Rule 1006 summary. Hackett v Hous. Auth. of City of San Antonio, 750 F2d 1308, 1312 (5th Cir. 1985) (citing Soden v. Freightliner Corp., 714 F.2d 498, 506 (5th Cir. 1983)). Additionally, Defendants object to the Trustee's Principal Balance Calculations to the extent the Trustee has no third-party evidence to support its conclusions.

C. The Sloan Account

142. Mr. Greenblatt determined that on September 7, 1999, the Sloan Account (No. 1CM597) was opened with two inter-account transfers from BLMIS Account No. 1CM295 in the aggregate amount of $1,782,332. However, the Sloan Account was only credited with $1,457,157 of principal because the remaining balance of this reported inter-account transfer constituted fictitious profits. Id. ¶¶ 28–29, 43, Exs. 4B, 4D.

RESPONSE: Disputed. These transfers provided the Sloan Trust Account with $1,782,332 in principal, which the Trustee has wrongly credited. Additionally, the terms "BLMIS", "fictitious profits" and "the Sloan Account" as defined by the Trustee are misleading. Account No. 1CM597 was held by the 1984 Sloan George Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust. .

143. Subsequent to this initial inter-account transfer, on October 29, 1999, there was an inter-account transfer from BLMIS Account No. 1CM295 to the Sloan Account in the amount of $26. However, this amount was not credited as principal into the Sloan Account because this reported inter-account transfer constituted fictitious profits. Id. ¶ 30, 44, Exs. 4B, 4D.

RESPONSE: Disputed. This transfer provided the Sloan Trust Account with $26 in principal, which the Trustee has wrongly credited. Additionally, the terms "BLMIS", "fictitious profits" and "the Sloan Account" as defined by the Trustee are misleading. Account No. 1CM597 was held by the 1984 Sloan George Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust. See Response to CSMF ¶¶ 124 and 142.

144. Additionally, between September 7, 1999 and December 11, 2008, there were eight cash deposits via check and wire into the Sloan Account in the aggregate amount of $1,958,637, all representing principal. Id. ¶ 45.

RESPONSE: Undisputed to the extent that between September 7, 1999 and December 11, 2008, there were eight cash deposits via check and wire into the Sloan Trust Account in the aggregate amount of $1,958,637, all representing principal. Disputed to the extent that the term “the Sloan Account” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Account No. 1CM597 was held by the 1984 Sloan George Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust.

145. In sum, these three inter-account transfers and eight cash deposits provided the Sloan Account with a total of $3,415,794 of principal. Id. ¶ 46, Ex. 3.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The Sloan Trust Account received two transfers in the amounts of $1,782,332 and $26 consisting of principal which the Trustee has failed to fully credit. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113, 124, 142 and 143. The term “the Sloan Account” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Account No. 1CM597 was held by the 1984 Sloan George Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust.

146. Between September 7, 1999 and December 11, 2008, the Sloan Account reflected a total of 56 cash withdrawals totaling $4,683,246. Id. ¶ 47.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “the Sloan Account” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Account No. 1CM597 was held by the 1984 Sloan George Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust.

147. All 56 checks from BLMIS representing a withdrawal from the Sloan Account were made payable to "Sloan G. Kamenstein." Collura Decl., Attach. B (Collura Kamenstein Report), Ex. 6; Cremona Decl., Ex. 18 (Nov. 14, 2001 BLMIS Check to Sloan Kamenstein).

RESPONSE: The term "the Sloan Account" as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Account No. 1CM597 was held by the 1984 Sloan George Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust. Additionally, during the period of December 11, 2006 to December 11, 2008, all checks representing withdrawals from the Sloan Trust Account were requested and received by David and deposited into an account held by David and Carol, the CKDK CAP Account, with two transfers to Sloan totaling $30,000. See ECF Nos. 128-21 and 128-27, Collura Report ¶ 28 and Ex. 6, "Reconciliation and Tracing Results"; see also CMF ¶ 28. Further, see Response to CSMF ¶ 123.

148. The Principal Balance Calculation for the Sloan Account demonstrated that between September 7, 1999 and December 11, 2008, $4,683,246 was withdrawn from BLMIS, which consisted of $3,415,794 of principal and an additional $1,267,452 of funds withdrawn in excess of principal, representing fictitious profits withdrawn over the life of the Sloan Account. Greenblatt Decl., Attach. B (Greenblatt Kamenstein Report) ¶ 48, Ex. 4D.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113, 124, 142, 143 and 145. Further, the terms "fictitious profits", "the Sloan Account" and BLMIS as defined by the Trustee are misleading. Account No. 1CM597 was held by the 1984 Sloan George Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust.

149. Within the Two-Year Period prior to December 11, 2008, $527,400 of fictitious profits was withdrawn from the Sloan Account. Id.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113 and 124, 142, 143 and 145. Further, the terms "the Sloan Account" and "fictitious profits" as defined by the Trustee are misleading. Account No. 1CM597 was held by the 1984 Sloan George Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust.

150. It is therefore undisputed that, during the Two-Year Period, Sloan withdrew $527,400 in excess of principal deposited in the Sloan Account. Id.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113, 124, 142, 143 and 145.

Additionally, the term “the Sloan Account” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Account No. 1CM597 was held by the 1984 Sloan George Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust. Moreover, the Trustee’s contention that Sloan withdrew funds from the Sloan Trust Account is a misrepresentation. David Kamenstein managed the Kamenstein Accounts and requested and received all withdrawals. E.g. CMF ¶ 22, 28. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 123 and 147.

Further, Defendants object to the Trustee’s Principal Balance Calculations. They are derived from hearsay (Fed. R. Evid. 801, 802). As the Trustee’s own expert admitted, BLMIS’s books and records were “permeated with fraud.” See Response to CSMF ¶ 21. Summaries derived from inadmissible hearsay cannot constitute a Rule 1006 summary. Hackett v Hous. Auth. of City of San Antonio, 750 F2d 1308, 1312 (5th Cir. 1985) (citing Soden v. Freightliner Corp., 714 F.2d 498, 506 (5th Cir. 1983)). Additionally, Defendants object to the Trustee’s Principal Balance Calculations to the extent the Trustee has no third-party evidence to support its conclusions.

151. On January 12, 2009, Sloan filed and signed customer claim number 000177 attempting to recover the balance on his last BLMIS customer statement, listing himself as the accountholder for the Sloan Account. Cremona Decl., Ex. 15 (Sloan Kamenstein Customer Claim).

RESPONSE: Disputed. The document speaks for itself, and Account No. 1CM597 was held by the 1984 Sloan George Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust.

D. The Tracy Account

152. Mr. Greenblatt determined that on September 7, 1999, the Tracy Account (No. 1CM596) was opened with two inter-account transfers from BLMIS Account No. 1CM295 in the aggregate amount of $1,782,332. However, the Tracy Account was only credited with $1,457,157 of principal because the remaining balance of this reported inter-account transfer constituted fictitious profits. Greenblatt Decl., Attach. B (Greenblatt Kamenstein Report) ¶¶ 28–29, 31, Exs. 4B, 4C.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Response to CSMF ¶ 124. These transfers provided the Tracy Trust Account with $1,782,332 in principal, which the Trustee has wrongly credited. Additionally, the terms “BLMIS”, “fictitious profits” and “the Tracy Account” as defined by the Trustee are misleading. Account No. 1CM596 was held by the 1984 Tracy Dara Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust..

153. Subsequent to this initial inter-account transfer, on October 29, 1999, there was an inter-account transfer from BLMIS Account No. 1CM295 to the Tracy Account in the amount of $26. However, this amount was not credited as principal into the Tracy Account because this reported inter-account transfer constituted fictitious profits. Id. ¶ 30, 32, Exs. 4B, 4C.

RESPONSE: Disputed. This transfer provided the Tracy Trust Account with $26 in principal, which the Trustee has wrongly credited. Additionally, the terms “BLMIS,” “fictitious profits” and “the Tracy Account” as defined by the Trustee are misleading. Account No. 1CM596 was held by the 1984 Tracy Dara Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 124 and 152.

154. Additionally, between September 7, 1999 and December 11, 2008, there were seven cash deposits via checks and wires into the Tracy Account in the aggregate amount of $1,082,435, all representing principal. Id. ¶ 33.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The term “the Tracy Account” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Account No. 1CM596 was held by the 1984 Tracy Dara Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust. See Response to CSMF ¶¶ 152.

155. In sum, these three inter-account transfers and seven cash deposits provided the Tracy Account with a total of $2,539,593 of principal. Id. ¶ 34, Ex. 3.

RESPONSE: Disputed. The Tracy Trust Account received two transfers in the amounts of $1,782,332 and $26 consisting of principal which the Trustee has failed to fully credit. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113, 124, 152 and 153. The term “the Tracy Account” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Account No. 1CM596 was held by the 1984 Tracy Dara Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust.

156. Between September 7, 1999 and December 11, 2008, the Tracy Account reflected a total of 53 cash withdrawals totaling $2,991,907. Id. ¶ 35.

RESPONSE: The term “the Tracy Account” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Account No. 1CM596 was held by the 1984 Tracy Dara Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust.

157. Each of the 53 checks from BLMIS representing a withdrawal from the Tracy Account were made payable to “Tracy D. Kamenstein.” Collura Decl., Attach. B (Collura Kamenstein Report), Ex. 6; Cremona Decl., Ex. 17 (Jan. 6, 2000 BLMIS Check to Tracy Kamenstein).

RESPONSE: The term “the Tracy Account” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Account No. 1CM596 was held by the 1984 Tracy Dara Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust. Additionally, during the period of December 11, 2006 to December 11, 2008, all checks representing withdrawals from the Tracy Trust Account were requested and received by David and deposited into an account held by David and Carol, the CKDK CAP Account. The Trustee has no third-party evidence to support that any of the funds were received by Tracy. See ECF Nos. 128-21 and 128-27, Collura Report ¶ 28 and Ex. 6, “Reconciliation and Tracing Results”; see also CMF ¶¶ 28. Further, see Response to CSMF ¶ 123 and 147.

158. The Principal Balance Calculation for the Tracy Account demonstrated that between September 7, 1999 and December 11, 2008, $2,991,907 was withdrawn from BLMIS, which consisted of $2,539,593 of principal and an additional $452,314 of funds withdrawn in excess of principal, representing fictitious profits withdrawn over the life of the Tracy Account. Greenblatt Decl., Attach. B (Greenblatt Kamenstein Report) ¶ 36, Ex. 4C.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113, 124, 152, 153 and 155. Further, the terms “fictitious profits”, “BLMIS” and “the Tracy Account” as defined by the Trustee are misleading. Account No. 1CM596 was held by the 1984 Tracy Dara Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust.

159. Within the Two-Year Period prior to December 11, 2008, $452,314 of fictitious profits was withdrawn from the Tracy Account. Id.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113, 124, 152, 153 and 155. Further, the terms “fictitious profits” and “the Tracy Account” as defined by the Trustee are misleading. Account No. 1CM596 was held by the 1984 Tracy Dara Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust.

160. It is therefore undisputed that, during the Two-Year Period, Tracy withdrew $452,314 in excess of principal deposited in the Tracy Account. Id.

RESPONSE: Disputed. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 113, 124, 152, 153 and 155. Additionally, the term “the Tracy Account” as defined by the Trustee is misleading. Account No. 1CM596 was held by the 1984 Tracy Dara Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust. Moreover, the Trustee’s contention that Tracy withdrew funds from the Tracy Trust Account is a misrepresentation.. David Kamenstein managed the Kamenstein Accounts and requested and received all withdrawals. E.g. CMF ¶ 22, 28. During the period of December 11, 2006 to December 11, 2008, Tracy did not request or receive any funds from the Tracy Trust Account. See Responses to CSMF ¶¶ 123, 147 and 157; CMF ¶ 26-30.

Further, Defendants object to the Trustee's Principal Balance Calculations. They are derived from hearsay (Fed. R. Evid. 801, 802). As the Trustee's own expert admitted, BLMIS's books and records were "permeated with fraud." See Response to CSMF ¶ 21. Summaries derived from inadmissible hearsay cannot constitute a Rule 1006 summary. Hackett v Hous. Auth. of City of San Antonio, 750 F2d 1308, 1312 (5th Cir. 1985) (citing Soden v. Freightliner Corp., 714 F.2d 498, 506 (5th Cir. 1983)). Additionally, Defendants object to the Trustee's Principal Balance Calculations to the extent the Trustee has no third-party evidence to support its conclusions.

161. On January 12, 2009, Tracy executed and submitted customer claim number 000189 attempting to recover the balance on her last BLMIS customer statement, listing herself as the accountholder for the Tracy Account. Cremona Decl., Ex. 15 (Tracy Kamenstein Customer Claim).

RESPONSE: Disputed. The document speaks for itself and Account No. 1CM596 was held by the 1984 Tracy Dara Kamenstein Irrevocable Trust.
